OUTLINES.

The strike of the commercial telegraphers of the Western Union and Postal companies threatens to extend throughout the United Staes and Canada; already 4,000 operators have quit work in 50 cities from Ohio to California, and including several cities in the South; the telegraph companes will put up a determined fight and are employing strikebreakers; a bitter struggle is imminent.——Eighteen negro soldiers of the 25th Infantry, which figured in the Brownsville riot, were arrested in San Francisco Friday night for creating a difficulty bordering on riot.——The Texas State Board of Health has issued strict regulations for churches, schools, public buildings, passenger trains, etc., under the act of the Legislature governing tuberculosis.——The Bishops of London and St. Albans are to attend the church convention at the Jamestown Exposition in October, to celebrate the 300th aniversary of the founding of the Episcopal Church in America. ——Five counterfeiters, their moulds and a lot of spurious coin were captured at Uniontown, Pa., yesterday.——Emil Jerome Simon, a rich young New Yorker and student in Columbia University, for killing a woman with an automobile in Germany, has been sentenced to three months and to pay the costs, the German court refusing him bail.——Judge S. B. Short was arrested on the bench at Centre, Tex., yesterday on the charge of murder. ——A conflict has occurred at Parksleg, Va., as the result of the shooting of Garland Belote, a white editor, by a negro; it is believed that armed negroes have killed four other citizens and aid is asked from several surrounding towns.——New York markets: Money on call nominal, no loans, time loans firmer; spot cotton quiet 13.40; flour firm; wheat weak, No. 2 red 92 7-8 elevator; corn steady, No. 2 60 elevator; oats firm, mixed 56 1-2; turpentine firm 60; rosin quiet, strained common to good 4.45 to 4.70.

We now hear no more of Roosevelt's hankering after shooting bears. He is now a bear himself, seeing as how stocks tumble when he crooks his finger.

Newspapers continue to publish the picture of E. H. Harriman. Mr. Harriman ought to apply for an injunction to prevent it, on the ground that the pictures as they make him appear would prejudice the jury.

SEVERE RAIN STORM

Perfect Cloudburst in Wilmington and This Vicinity Yesterday About Noon Hour.

GREAT DAMAGE TO STREETS

Water Poured in Torrents Everywhere—Narrow Escape of Child Who Fell Into Pond of Water In Yard—Near 5 Inches.

Wilmington was visited by another severe rain storm yesterday about noon. Macadamized streets all over the city were badly washed and other damage was done possibly to growing crops in the country hereabouts. The rain began to fall shortly before 12 o'clock and it came down in the nature of a cloudburst. In less than two hours a fall of more than two inches was recorded by the Weather Bureau. Streets and gutters were filed to overflowing and water pipes were totally inadequate to care for the streams that poured in at every sand trap. It is impossible to estimate the amount of damage done to the streets. Soon after the rain, the telephone bell at the police station began ringing and report after report of washouts dangerous to pedestrians and drivers, began to pour in. The men in the Streets and Wharves Department marked as many of the places with red lights as possible before nightfall, but they were unable to cover all the territory and the duty devolved upon the night police force as they went on their beats last night. As the men went out with red lights for marking the danger places, they resembled a torch light procession election times.

The streets already in bad condition by the unprecedentedly heavy rains of the past two months and the inadequate force at work on them are now tenfold worse. Mayor Springer and Streets and Wharves Chairman O'Brien had troubles enough before but now no one would blame them to throw up their hands in despair. Such rains as those that have occurred here within past two months have eclipsed anything in the recollection of the "oldest inhabitant," and it will take weeks and months to restore the macadam and the drainage system all over the city.

With the rainfall of 2.38 inches yesterday, the total precipitation since the first of the month just ten days ago, has been nearly five inches, or to be exact, 4.61 inches. This is way above normal and if the record is kept up, the Weather Man will have to make a new dating on his maps.

An actual occurrence yesterday afternoon may seem exaggeration in connection with the rain, but it is vouched for by persons intimately acquainted with the circumstances. Freddie Blizzard, the five-year-old son of Mr. A. F. Blizzard, 506 South Sixth was playing on the front porch of the family home just after the cloudburst. In an unguarded moment he fell off the steps of the porch at the house into 15 inches of water that had run into the yard from the street. The child would have been drowned but for the fact that the little fellow was seen by some member of the household and was rescued just in the nick of time.

To Remove the Tabernacle.

Today will be the last services of the Church of Christ, Disciples, to be held in the Tabernacle on Fourth street between Princess and Chestnut. The first of this week the structure will be removed to the southwest corner of Sevenh and Orange streets. The congregation has rented this lot with the privilege of buying at any time during the year. This will probably be the church home. As soon as possible a modern church that will be a credit to the city will be built.

CONFUSION OF TONGUES

Alleged Peons in Trial of Railroad Contractor at Beaufort Go By Numbers and Then Trial is Difficult—Little Progress.

(By Associated Press.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 10.—The attempt to examine the aleged peons in the trial of E. A. Kline, the railroad contractor, in the Federal court at Beaufort today, encountered numberless obstacles. The witnesses could speak no English at all, and the interpreters could do little better. It puzzled the judge, stenographer and everybody else to get an intellifent idea out of the mass of words.

Zeb Bland, who was at the railroad camp when the foreigners were arrested, testified that when the warrant was read to the men it was suggested that the men who wished to remain in the camp should step to one side of a line, the remark being made at the same time that the others would be sent to jail. Difficulty was experienced in identifying the peons by the numbers by which they were designated in the warrant. The trial will be resumed Monday.

The interpreter, Yakova Spivakovisiski, testified that he was taken to Greenville by Special Agent Hoyt, after the preliminary trial of Kline, and while the alleged peons were held in jail as witnesses for the government, and through his translation the names of the alleged peons were ascertained, also the number by which each was designated. On this the bill of indictment for the government was drawn, charging that Barris Martinovitx, alias number 63, and 11 others named, and alias numbers given, had been returned to peonage by Kline. In the bill each of 12 names had eight separate counts. The interpreter also testified that he had been regularly employed by th govrnment some three weeks or more ago to translate the language of foreigners in this case. Previously he had been a musician in the orchestra at Morehead.

ON THE ROLL OF HONOR

Atlantic National Bank of Wilmington Received Big Distinction.

The "Roll of Honor of the National Banks of the United States" is a table prepared by The New York Financier from the statements of every bank in the country to the Comptroller of the Currency, the date chosen being September, the statements then being published in a large volume by the government. To secure a place on this honor roll a bank must show surplus and undivided profits equal to or in excess of its capital stock—that is, assuming the capital to be one hundred per cent., the profits and surplus must exceed that percentage. In other words, a Roll of Honor bank has on hand, in the form of surplus and profits, an amount larger than its capital. A bank's numerical order on the roll is based on the percentage of surplus and profits to capital.

According to the last annual report of the Comptroller of the Currency, there were 6,137 banks in operation under National charters. Of these only 880 are entitled to positions on the roll, or in other words seven banks in each 100 doing business. It is a source of pride to Wilmington and to the officers and directors of that institution to know that the Atlantic National Bank, of this city, is one of the number. It stands near the head of the list and is credited with $125.060 capital with $218,650 surplus and undivided profits, the percentage of gain in surplus and undivided profits for the year ending September 1905 being 12.87 and for 1906 1.07. The percentage of surplus and undivided profits to capital September 1906 amounted to 174.92. In this distinction the Atlantic National stands first in the city, first in the State and 230th in the Nation. The report is the 17th annual by the New York Financier and the showing made by the Wilmington institution is a most gratifing one.

THE NEWBERN STEAMER

Suction Hose Stuffed With Tow Sack In Engine Contests.

Ever since the engine contests on Wednesday morning of tournament week, the boys of the Newbern steamer have been perplexed to know just how to account for the behavior of their steamer in that contest. Chief D. M. Styron, of the Newbern Department, who remained in the city after the tournament yesterday received a telegram from Engineer Walter T. Brinson after his return to Newbern, giving the whole explanation of the engine's behavior. Some one with malice aforethought or for rascality of the vilest sort, stuffed the suction hose of the steamer with a tow sack. Of course it could draw no water of consequence from the river through an obstruction like that and the trouble was not discovered until after the engine was taken back home. The Newbern boys were well pleased with the tournament at Wilmington and favor having Wilmington as the permanent tournament city.

Rain Prohibited Baseball.

All games of baseball in the two city leagues had to be abandoned yesterday afternoon on account of the rain. The weather was almost a repetition of the Saturday previous, when all games were also called off. A few of the faithful went out to the grounds at Hilton and on Castle street, but there was nothing doing.

RALEIGH'S FIREMEN

GOVERNOR TO JAMESTOWN

Expecting Big Things at Exposition During North Carolina Week. Fine Crops in Robeson—Agricultural Expert.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 10.—The clanging of the city fire alarm at 2:30 o'clock this morning heralded to the sleeping citizenship the fact that the firemen had arrived from the State Firemen's Tournament at Wilmington. As soon as the teams disembarked from the train they, with their apparatus, dashed up West Martin street clanging the gongs, affording a merry serenade. The prizes won at the tournament were: Steamer, first money for long distance throwing of water; W. R. Womble, hook and ladder, first money for quickest time, lowering its own world's record of last year; Capital Hose Co., third money for hose wagon contest, on Inter-State day.

Governor Glenn and his personal and general staff will leave Tuesday morning at 10:45 o'clock to attend North Carolina Week at the Exposition, arriving in Norfolk at 5:30 P. M., where he will be shown distinguished honors.

Governor Glenn expressed himself this morning as confident that success will attend every detail of the programme for North Carolina Week, and that the attendance from every part of the State will be in the highest degree creditable. He is well pleased with the arrangements for the movement and encampmnt of the State militia and with the programme as arranged by the North Carolia Society and others at the Exposition for the events of the week. He will be joined at the North Carolina building Tuesday by Mrs. Glenn and Miss Rebekah, who have been in Tennessee for several weeks and are now spending a few days in Washington. He wants North Carolinians and the people of every other State, for that matter, to be perfestly free to come to the North Carolina building, where he and Mrs. Glenn will be host and hostess at any and all seasonable hours during the time that they are there.

Senator Overman, Locke Craig, Governor Ansel, of South Carolina, and others will speak at Gibson, Scotland county, Thursday, August 15th. It is expected to be a noteworthy occasion.

Mr. W. M. Hay, assistant secretary of agriculture, Washington, D. C., will attend the State Farmers' Convention and will deliver an address at 8:30 P. M. on August 29, on "Improvements in Rural Affairs."

Prof. J. B. Carlyle, of Wake Forest College, was in Raleigh yesterday returning from Robeson, his native ccrops," he said. "The crops of Robecrops," hes aid. "The crops of Robeson are fine." Crops everywhere have improved wonderfully in the past three weeks.

CONVENTION THIS WEEK

Furniture Dealers of State Coming to Wrightsville Beach.

Mr. Henderson Cole, chairman of the local committee on entertainment, is expecting upwards of two hundred visitors here and at Wrightsville Beach, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of this week for the fourth annual convention of the Retail Furniture Dealers' Association of North Carolina which will assemble at the Hotel Tarrymoore, Wrightsville Beach The third annual convention was held last year at Winston-Salem when a hundred or more visitors were attracted to the twin-city, but since that time the Association has grown much in numbers and in influence and the meeting at Wrightsville is expected to be the best yet held. Mr. B. F. Huntley, of Greensboro, is president, and Mr. W. B. Summersett, of Salisbury, is secretary and treasurer of the Association. The address of welcome will be by Mayor Springer and the response by Mr. E. F. Hall, of Reidsville.

The sessions of the convention will begin Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock and both an afternoon and night session will be held. Wednesday morning will be devoted to a number of papers and addresses of interest to the trade. On Thursday the delegates will be taken at 9 o'clock for a trip down the historic Cape Fear on the steamer Wilmington, returning in time for the night session at which the annual election of officers and choice of next place of meeting will take place. The convention will bring to Wilmington a most representative body of the State's business men and Wilmington will be pleased to welcome them.

SIMPLY FORGOT ORDERS

Frank Reply of Conductor to Coroner's Jury Ivestigating Southern Railway Wreck on Southern Near Raleigh Last Week.

(By Associated Press.)

Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 10.—"I simply forgot my orders; that's all." This was the excuse given by Conductor Oakley today before the coroner's jury investigating the head-on collision on the Southern Railway at Auburn, eight miles of here, last Tuesday, which resulted in the loss of three lives.

Conductor Oakley and the engineer of the passenger train which collided with the freight train, received their orders at Raleigh, and, according to the evidence submitted today, if these orders had been complied with the collision would have been averted. hearing will be resumed August 19th, when it is expected to have witnesses present who could not be here today.

ANOTHER COMRADE GONE

Mr. Joseph Todd Passed Away in This City Yesterday Evening.

Another faithful Confederate soldier has answered his final roll call and been gathered to his fathers. The death of Mr. Joseph Todd occurred last night at 6:20 P. M. at his home No. 706 Wooster street, aged 73 years, seven months and 21 days. Mr. Todd was a faithful soldier from the beginning to the end of the war having served with the Tenth South Carolina Volunteers. He was a faithful member of the Baptist Church at White Oak, Horry county, S. C., and died in the hope of a brighter resurrection, a loving husband and a devoted father. He was held in the highest respect by all in the circle of his acquaintance. He leaves to mourn their loss his wife, Mrs. Helen M. Todd, one son and a daughter, Mr. W. J. Todd, of Spray, N. C., and Mrs. B. A. Sarvis, of this city. The funeral will be conducted by Elder J. W. S. Harvey, of the Second Advent Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence and all friends and comrades are invited to attend the obsequies.

THE A. J. JOHNSON SOLD.

Capt. Jeff Bradshaw Becomes Purchaser of River Steamboat.

Mr. A. J. Johnson, of Clear Run, Sampson county, spent yesterday in the city and while here formally made transfer of the steamer A. J. Johnson to Capt. Jeff D. Bradshaw, of Fayetteville, who will operate the craft on the Cape Fear River. Capt. Bradshaw is an old master of river boats and a host of friends between here and Fayetteville will give him their undivided patronage. There can be no doubt but that he will make a success of the new line. The Johnson will be missed on the Black river, where she has been operated since 1899. She is a substantial craft, and is admirably adapted to the service to which she will be put. The steamer was taken up to Fayetteville yesterday afternoon. She wil be repaired and overhauled there and will soon take her runs on the river, returning to the city next Thursday.

SALE AT I. SHRIER'S

In connection with the disposal of goods damaged in the recent fire in his building, Mr. I. Shrier, the well known clothier at northeast corner of Front and Princess streets, announces that he has decided to close out at some price his entire stock of goods whether damaged in the late fire or not. This is to make room for an entirely new stock of Fall and Winter goods which have been purchased. The store will be remodelled throughout on the interior and cabinets of the latest and most approved style will be installed in the store for the better handling of the all-new and fine line of goods that will be carried. The sale is now on and will be continued until every article in the store is disposed of. It would pay the bargain seeker to call early and get pick of styles and prices.

Mayor's Court Yesterday.

There were only a few cases before the Mayor in the police court yesterday. Chas. Galloway, a disorderly negro entered a South Front street confectionery store and kicked up a row. He was ejected and showed fight toward the proprietor after he was on the street. He was arrested by Policeman A. D. Smith, and was fined $5 and costs. Richard Haywood, a negro charged with disorderly conduct, and using inflammatory language against the whole caucasian race, was taxed with $10 and costs, in default of which he will go to the rock pile.

Negroes Handy With Knives.

Justice Bornemann's court room presented the scene of an emergency ward in a well regulated hospital yesterday morning. Eli Davis and Oscar Johnson, young Afro-Americans, had been indulging in a little knife practice at the expense of each other the night before and each was charged with an assault with a deadly weapon on the other. Each had a plaintive story to tell, but the justice held that there was probable cause in both cases and they were bound to the higher court, which meets the last of the next month. They went to jail in default of bond of $50 each.

ON TO JAMESTOWN

North Carolina Week Will Attract Thousands to Exposition Beginning To-Morrow.

MILITARY ENCAMPMENT

Second and Third Regiments and Naval Battalion Begins Movement Tonight—W. L. I. and Naval Reserves.

"On to Jamestown!" This will be the rally cry all over North Carolina today and tomorrow. It is North Carolina Week at the big exposition and there will perhaps be more "down homers" on the War Path within the next few days than were ever there before. The Exposition is now as nearly completed as it will ever be, and some very close observers have given their unqualified opinion that the show is well worth travelling miles to see. The Jamestown management is confidently expecting North Carolina Week to be the biggest and brightest of any of the special events yet held in connection with the Exposition. It will be a National event, in which it behooves every patriotic North Carolinian to be interested. A programme of special events, all of which appear from a special North Carolina Week article printed elsewhere in today's paper, has been arranged, and the transportation companies have made unusual arrangements to handle large crowds with comfort and dispatch.

The military feature of the week will perhaps be the most notable. Both the Second and Third regiments with the North Carolina Naval Battalion, will be there for their annual encampment, and Thursday, the 15th, has been especially designated as "North Carolina Day." On this date the programme will be of the most elaborate nature, consisting of a review of all the troops of the State, accompanied by United States infantry, cavalry and artillery. The fleets in the harbor will be brilliantly illuminated at night and the occasion will be a gala one. In order to accommodate the Wilmington people the Atlantic Coast Line has published a rate of $5.25 for the round trip, good on the 13th and 14th, limited to seven days from date of sale. There are correspondingly low rates from other points on the system. A large number of extra coaches has been provided to accommodate the crowds that will attend from this section, and if the travel is not heavy, the transportaion people will be disappointed.

For Wilmington people the military feature will be that of interest in connection with Carolina Week. Both the Wilmington Light Infantry and the Wilmington Division Naval Reserves will be encamped on the grounds, with the Second and Third regments of the North Carolina National Guard. Both companies will leave on a special train over the Atlantic Coast Line at one minute past 12 o'clock tonight, this comforting eaoinshrdluetaoin this conforming to the order of Governor Glenn that no troops shall be moved on the Sabbath.

The Wilimngton Light Infantry will be in command of Capt. Wm. F. Robertson and as usual it will leave and return with flying colors. It is expected that fully 90 per cent. of the enlistment will be carried into camp, the roster of the company being as follows:

Captain—Wm. F. Robertson.
First Lieutenant—T. R. Orrell.
Second Lieutenant—T. J. Gause.
Sergeants—P. L. Cantwell, L. E. Hall, H. B. Peschau, A. C. Smith, Neil S. Morse, with W. A. Peschau quartermaster sergeant.
Corporals—C. L. Myers, J. B. Lynch, Z. K. Bell, W. L. Smith, Jr., Norwood Orrell, F. O. Banck.
Privates—A. C. Banck, A. G. Bowden, E. P. Bailey, P. W. Davis, J. L. Duffy, E. C. Dickinson, J. C. DeHay, A. T. Gibbons, W. F. Grant, E. H. Holmes, P. M. Holmes, O. D. Holmes, R. F. Hamme, Jr., N. Huske, Jr., N. W. Lynch, H. A. Lynch, H. M. Lilly, L. B Munds, J. Q. Myers, L. L. Merritt, L. B. and R. H. McKoy, B. W. Newkirk, Jr., H. S O'Neill, E. F. Peschau, L. J. Poisson, H. P. Reaves, F. M. Ross, J. S. Smith, W. Stokley, H. S. Taylor, P. B. Wilkes, W. W. Watters and John Slocum.

Col. H. C. Bragaw, of Washington, will be in command of the Second Regiment. Lieut.-Col. John VanB. Metts, of this city, finds it impossible to attend the encampment this year. His brother, Lieut. E. A. Metts, one of the battalion adjutaints, however, will attend and Mr. W. P. Monroe, of Wilmington, will attend as Regimental Sergeant, being stationed at headquarters during the week. Matters of the quartermaster's department will be under control of the Brigade Quartermaster, Maj. J. G. Hollingsworth, of Fayetteville.

Capt. Robertson has ordered the Wilmington Light Infantry to assemble at the armory tonight at 11 o'clock for the purpose of being ready to move promptly at the hour appointed. All are asked to report with knapsacks containing all necessary underclothing, towels, soap, toilet articles, etc. It is understood that 150 pounds of baggage will be allowed each man, including officers and en-

PORT STATISTICS.

The Star a few days ago reproduced from the Charlotte Observer an editorial in which it explained its comparison of the exports of Wilmington and Norfolk. Our esteemed Charlotte contemporary meant to call attention to the fact that Wilmington's export business was much larger than that of Norfolk, but the Norfolk Landmark in defense of Norfolk called attention to the larger combined coastwise and foreign trade of Norfolk. Wilmington is content with her fine export business and regards Norfolk as fortunate in having her fine coastwise business. All our ports have their advantages, and The Star is exceedingly gratified when a fine showing is made for any Southern port. The Landmark, referring to The Observer's editorial, says:

"As was to be expected of so straightforward a journal, the Charlotte Observer makes no bones of admitting that it was hasty in its comparison of Wilmington (N. C.) and Norfolk as ports. It turns out, as we suspected, that the Observer had made the mistake of judging the ports rather by foreign trade than by the total trade—a frequent blunder. The export and import trade of the Virginia ports is a small thing in comparison with the coastwse trade.

"The queston of where the tremendous coastwise trade of this port comes from and goes is too large to be discussed in the short space of an editorial. We are glad to say that a vast amount of our trade is with North Carolina—the more, the better. The exact proportion we have no means of estimating.

"That Wilmington can make favorable comparison with this port in invention, which has been tried with strictly foreign business is a fact which The Landmark has never undertaken to dispute. We readily furnish the Observer the latest figures which we have at hand; those for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1906 (no doubt, the figures for 1907 are larger in both cases). The imports of Wilmington for 1906 were $503,285; the imports of Norfolk and Portsmouth were $780,231. The exports of Wilmington for 1906 were $18,466,000; the exports of Norfolk and Portsmouth were $12,027,000.

"It is fair to say in this port's behalf that a good deal of export trade which really belongs to Norfolk and Portsmouth goes to the credit of New port News, whose exports in 1906 amounted to $20,119,000. This freight, of which Norfolk and Portsmouth lose the benefit in the customs reports, is barged across to Newport News and loaded on ocean ships leaving from that port, while practically none is barged from Newport News to Norfolk and Portsmouth. Even when due allowance is made for this fact, we cannot boast of our foreign trade. We ought to have more. Savannah's foreign trade is greater than that of Norfolk and Portsmouth, Newport News, Wilmington, and Charleston combined. But Norfolk and Portsmouth's general harbor traffic reaches a total which is one-third of the entire value of the export trade of the United States; and we think that is 'going some.'"

It is really difficult to tell what the coastwise business of a port is worth, unless there is a port statistician. Foreign exports are recorded at the custom houses, but coastwise exports are not required to be filed there, and so no account is taken of them except in the marine reports of the newspapers.

We might add that in a few days the Department of Labor and Commerce will send out the shipping statistics for the year ended June 30, 1907, and from that the latest statistical position of the ports as to exports can be obtained. It will show that Wilmington's exports were larger than for 1906. It might also be added that Wilmington does a considerable coastwise business and that the products of her saw mills and fertilizer factories constitute a source of wealth that legitimately belongs to the port trade.

GREAT LIGHTING INVENTION.

There comes from Milwaukee by wire on Thursday a piece of news that is of more than ordinary interest, indeed, if it is not somewhat startling. The Milwaukee dispatch announces that in the invention of a battery by Frank A. Curtis, of Milwaukee, leading financial and railroad men of the country believe a successful rival to the Standard Oil Company has been discovered. The promoters aim to establish electric light plants at a slight cost even in dwellings. It is further stated that a company known as the Battery Light and Power Company, has been organized under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, with a capitalization of $5,000,000 to exploit the invention, which has been tired with satisfactory success by some of the largest railroad companies of the country, including the Northwestern and the Pullman companies.

Among the many men interested in the corporation are Fred D. Underwood, president of Erie Railroad Company; F. G. Rice, superintendent of Pullman Car Company; A. W. Trenholm, general manager of the Omaha road and a near relative of Garvin Hughitt, president of the Northwestern Road, who is also said to be interested in the company; Frank Tabor, one of the most astute mining financiers of the United States, and E. H. Johnson, superintendent of the Western Union. J. G. Wagner, of Milwaukee, is president of the corporation, and the inventor, Frank A. Custis, the secretary.

Just exactly what the Curtis invention is it is not stated, but as there have been wonderful inventions, now in practical use but which at first taxed man's credulty, it is not well to doubt the Milwaukee story till it goes to sleep with the Philadelphia invention of some years ago, known as the Keeley motor.

It is really to be hoped that Mr. Curtis' invention is the real thing. We have been looking for just such a thing, and if he hasn't got it some genius will discover it or have it revealed to him sooner or later.

CURRENT COMMENT

—Uncle Sam hasn't yet recognized the belligerency of North Carolina and Alabama.—Chattanooga Times.

—Ex-Senator Marion Butler is now for Roosevelt. The combination will be complete when Tom Watson declares for Bryan.—Chattanooga Times.

—A Detroit man who went to court for a divorce willingly acted as a witness for a couple who were there to get married. There must be some truth in that old saying about misery loving company after all.—Washington Post.

—The W. R. Womble Hook and Ladder Company of Raleigh lowered the world's record yesterday in the contest in Wilmington. They won in forty-two seconds, taking two-fifths of a second from their record established at Asheville last year. Raleigh is proud and will welcome the boys home with every honor.—Raleigh News and Observer.

—Rowan and Mecklenburg counties have ordered elections to pass upon bond issues of $300,000 each for permanent road improvement. Guilford voted an issue of $200,000 two years ago. The matter of such a bond issue for Forsyth is now being discussed and the election will probably be called. Forsyth cannot afford to lag behind Winston.—Winston-Salem Journal.

—The Republican League is being criticised because it has arranged odd contests for women for its picnic to be held August 15. The contests to which the protests have been made are a beauty contest, beautiful forearm match, and the wading contest, the latter coming in for most of the complaint. Churchmen, club women, religious societies, and other bodies have criticised the contests as being immodest and ridiculous.—Cleveland Plaindearer.

—The Raleigh firemen are giving us a chance to read magnificent accounts of their deeds in Wilmington. Already first in the long distance steamer contest and breaking their own record and making a new world's one in the hook and ladder event, with a hose wagon race practically in their grasp. It is great work. Raleigh is prouder every year of its fire department. Both the last chief, John Mangum, and the new chief, Frank Simpson, deserve the heartisest congratulations that they are getting.—Raleigh Evening Times.

—The city of Winston, as soon as the authorized bonds are sold, will have a total of $150,000 at her disposal for the permanent improvement of streets, the waterworks system and the sewer system. Of this amount $85,000 will be spent upon the streets of the city; $35,000 upon the waterworks system, and $30,000 upon the extension of the sewer system. These amounts will provide practically every section of the city with the necessities so long needed and will give fully 90 per cent. of the people in the city good streets in front of their homes, the convenience of water and sewer connections, together with the resultant assurance of healthfulness and the satisfaction and pride derived from modern conveniences and surroundings.—Winston-Salem Journal.

—"He's awfully worried because his wife is getting so stout." "Is he afraid her heart won't stand it?" "No, he's afraid his runabout springs won't stand it."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

—Muggins—I'm surprised that you believe the story Brown just told us. Why, I wouldn't believe it if I told it myself. Huggins—Oh, well, in that case neither would I.—Chicago Daily News.

—Tommy—Pop, when is a girl an old maid? Tommy's Pop—When she begins to worry for fear she won't get married, my son. Tommy—And when is a man an old bachelor? Tommy's Pop—When he begins to worry for fear he will.—Philadelphia Record.

—"What," queried the youth with the question habit, "do you do when you get into a place where you can neither go ahead nor back out?" "I simply sit still and wear the place out," replied the home-grown philosopher.—Chicago Daily News.

—"I'll give you something to eat," said the lady as she glanced over the wood-pile, "but I expect some work—" "Lady," pleaded Weary Willie, "I got a splittin' headache." "You have, eh?" "Yes'm; de thought o' splittin' wood always gives me dat kind of a headache."—Philadelphia Press.

—"We all know," said the speaker, as he warmed to his subject, "we all know that it is better—to use a homely illustration—to push a lawn mower than to pull it." "We all know it is better to do neither," came a chilling voice from the rear of the hall. And the point was lost.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

—A traveler in the dining-car of a Georgia railroad had ordered fried eggs for breakfast. "Can't give yo' friend aigs, boss," the negro waiter informed him, "lesson yo' want to wait till we stops." "Why, how is that?" "Well, de cook, he says de road's so rough dat ebery time he tries to fry aigs dey scrambles."—Life.

FINAL REDUCTION SALE

Waist and Skirt Sale at Polgot's.

During the past week the Polvogt Company had the largest sales for an August week in many years. Their entire stock is being closed out at reduced prices, sacrifices being made in every department. Fifteen silk petticoats worth $7, remain to close out at $4.75 each. Fifty white lawn waists sold for $3 are to be sacrificed at $1.98 and $4 waists, embroidered fronts to close at $2.89; also $1.25 waists for 85c. Prices like these prevail throughout the entire store. Wilmington shoppers should appreciate these low and attractive prices and we predict for the Polvogt Company another busy week. Our readers are asked to bear in mind that prices are cut so low that no trading stamps will be given during this sale which will last until the 25th. Carpets and other floor coverings sold during the sale will be laid free either now or later in the season. All trimmed millinery has been cut in half. Those who have not attended the sale will do well to do so this week while stock is yet complete. **

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over 60 years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for Diarrhoea. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Sold by Druggists in every part of the world. Twenty-five cents bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other.

ONE OF GREENSBORO'S MOST LOVELY PLOTS

Keeley Institute Lawn an Inspiration and Object Lesson for Civic League Enthusiasts and all Admirers of the Beautiful.

Pleasing environments exert a wonderful influence in the creation and preservation of a healthful condition of mentality and this, in turn, plays an important part in producing and maintaining the normal state of the physical man. All physicians place great stress, and very properly so, upon physiological effect. Without this influence many cases of physical derangement would be exceedingly difficult of treatment.

Evidently, the management of the Keeley Institute, in this city, recognizes and acts upon the above premise and conclusion, for certainly there is no more beautiful and attractive plot in Greensboro than this institution's spacious lawn, with its carpet of luxuriant grass, and with trees, shrubbery, plants and flowers dotted here and there, without a crowding effect, and the whole presenting a most pleasing and artistic appearance. The graveled approach, lined upon either side with myriads of flowers, is an enchanting picture, and a feast for the eye of admirers. Here are found more specimens than may be seen elsewhere outside a nursery or botannical garden—sunflower, golden glow, hollyhock, gladiola, dahlia, zinia, hibiscus, balsam, fortulaca, canna, calalian, colens, nasturitium, hydrangea, boltonia, etc.

These picturesque grounds are admired by all beholders. Here Civic League enthusists, who are doing a great work for the city, may find further inspiration and many suggestions of value. With such a scene to greet the eyes of patients and aid the treatment the success of the institute is enhanced. Who could look day after day upon such fascinating beauty and not realize that it is worth while to live—to turn thought away from depression and towards the sunshine of lofty aspiration? Who can tell to how many sorrowing hearts has come the balm of hope—to how many darkened homes has been brought the benediction of redemption from thralldom—by the gentle whispers of good cheer spoken in flower language by this entrancing scene, awakening courage to press forward in efforts for reformation.

It is needless to say that behind this beautifying work there is a master mind, an artist, one who loves flowers as the true musician loves music, one who fondles these beautiful creations of the Great Artist as the parent fondles the child, and who finds in them joy and inspiration and companionship. The floral and landscape department of the institute has been for years under the active supervisfon of Captain J. Y. Whitted, and what he has wrought speaks more eloquently than words his praise.

In all his efforts Captain Whitted has the hearty co-operation of President W. H. Osborn and Manager C. D. Cunningham, both of whom take deep interest in contributing to the welfare of patients in every possible way.

The Keeley Institute is situated upon the entire block bounded by West Washington street, Blanwood avenue, McGee street and Edgeworth street, known as the Governor Morehead homeplace, and was first opened in the original residence, which was built in 1844. Last year considerable addition was made to the building and the institute is now prepared to accommodate seventy-five or more patients, and strictly first-class facilities are afforded. To speak of these features, however, is not the purpose of this article, but to present in some degree a pen picture of one of Greensboro's most beautiful plots.—Daily Industrial News, August 8.

A COMPLETE EXHIBIT.

FORESTRY, FISH AND GAME.

Odd Specimens on View In These Sections—White Possum and Albino Raccoon—Agricultural Pyramid With Its Novel Peanut Umbrella.

The North Carolina exhibit in the States' Exhibit Palace at the Jamestown exposition is second to none in the building. It is compact and exhaustive and thoroughly exploits the resources of the state, natural and manufactured. Covering something over 6,000 square feet of floor space in the northwest corner of the building, just to the left of the main entrance, this exhibit is in the form of the capital letter "L," with a square within it. This square contains about 3,000 square feet of floor space and displays the exhibits of agriculture, forestry, fish and game. That space contained in the "L" accommodates the exhibits of like character in the building. The collective assemblage cost $15,000, twice as much being spent in the square as in the side booths.

The state colors—blue, red and white—are prominently displayed in the decorations, and yet the prevailing scheme is cream and gold. Around the several sections of the exhibit is a railing of polished brass. The posts supporting this rail are finished in cream and gold. On the top of each is a flagstaff with a golden ball. The entrances—and there are some eight or ten of them—are flanked with tall cream white columns with Ionic capitals, surmounted by gilded eagles with wings outspread.

Draped in festoons between the columns in the central booth are cords of gilded and colored peanuts in unique and artistic decorations, aided by numerous designs of grain and forage plants.

On account of its size and unusual appearance the decorated building in the central exhibit catches your attention almost immediately. On the sides and roof of this little house is shown in quaint designs and displays nearly every principal agricultural product of North Carolina. The roof is made of cornshucks, the sides of wheat, tobacco, grasses, cornstalks, cotton and clipped grain. Among the most attractive designs on the house are the monogram of the state and the seal of the department of agriculture.

The most artistic display in the booth and one that will not fail to call forth admiration is an agricultural pyramid, built in four sections and exhibiting in tubes and jars all the grain products of the state. Covering this, drooping from the top, is a hanging umbrella of artificially colored peanuts, blending perfectly with the brown and yellow grain and with the red background with which the very picturesque pyramid is finished.

In the exhibit of agriculture there are unusually fine samples of all North Carolina grains and grasses in the sheaf or bundles. While the whole state of North Carolina is represented by the fine exhibits of the department of agriculture, a great many of the finest were sent from the plantation of W. H. Robins, near Raleigh, Mr. Robins himself arranging them in the booth.

Though a by no means ancient science, forestry finds many of its ardent students in North Carolina, and the exhibits in this department are surpassed by none of like nature at the exposition.

Among the exhibits of the department of fish and game are several of the most strange and unique at the entire exposition. The visitor will see a possum with creamy white hair and beautiful pink eyes and an albino squirrel as white as cotton.

In the same case with these freaks he will see a yellow raccoon so nearly approaching albinoism as to be almost a true representative of the type. These three specimens are from the North Carolina state museum, where for the last several years they have attracted great attention and interest. They were all killed in the state, the possum having been caught near Raleigh, the raccoon near Wilmington and the squirrel in Craven county.

Then there are a number of game and fur bearing animals, together with a large assortment of skins.

There is a case full of wild ducks—twenty-three varieties, two of each, as a rule—and six or eight wild geese. They were collected by H. H. Brimley, curator of the North Carolina museum, many specimens having been prepared especially for exhibit at the exposition. With the ducks is shown a hybrid duck, a cross between a mallard and black duck. This was shot some time ago in North Carolina and is one of the few specimens of hybrid ducks in existence.

The fishing interests of the state are represented by a number of large colored reproductions of the most important fish of North Carolina waters and a full assortment of crabs, clams, oysters, turtles, shrimps, etc.

Jamestown's Accessibility.

Within a twenty-four hour radius of the exposition there live some 40,000,000 people, or nearly half the population of the entire United States. Eight or ten railroads and as many steamship lines center in Norfolk and Newport News, making it possible to bring all of these people to the exposition during the period of the celebration, and all who enter the gates of the Colonial City by the Sea will find entertainment in the highest sense of the word.

Belle of Virginia
BLENDED RYE

When a man goes for a drink of Belle of Virginia Whiskey he hurries because he knows he will have a fine drink, and when he comes away he smiles and smacks his lips because he has had it. Belle of Virginia is a blended whiskey—a rye whiskey carefully and scientifically blended from fine, pure, old whiskies. It's a really good honest article and to those who like a blended whiskey it will give satisfaction clear down to the ground.

Sold at the places where gentlemen go to get a drink.

Mrs. Cutlar Lee, of Fremont, who has been a guest at the Tarrymoore for the past two weeks returned to her home Thursday. Her mother, Mrs. B. F. Lee, will remain in Wilmington for a few days longer as the guest of friends in this city.

Mrs. John G. Heilig, Miss Marvin Heilig, Miss Lilly Eilers Heilig, and Mr. Paul Hollig, of Salisbury who have been visitors on the beach for the past two weeks returned to their home last Friday, much to the regret of their many friends in this city.

Miss Urla Swain was the hostess of a very delightful little entertainment Tuesday night, given to a few of her friends to meet Miss Towles of Washington, D. C. A very pleasant evening was spent by her guests, after which very dainty refreshments were served.

A delightful house party in Fayetteville at the home of Miss Annie Elliott, is being enjoyed by the following ladies: Misses Alice Lee and Jean Elliott, of Thornwall; Sallie Slocum and Flora Smith of Dunn; May Fairley Patterson, of Linden; Gibson, of Fayetteville.

The departure of Miss Marjorie Chapman, of Spartanburg, S. C., was a source of deep regret to her many friends. Miss Chapman possesses a rare charm of manner which made for her numerous friends who will be pleased to welcome her to Wrightsville Beach.

After an all too short stay in Wilmington as the guests of Miss Nannie Watters, on Orange street, Misses Nannie Haye and Juliet Crews returned to their homes in Raleigh Thursday afternoon. Miss VonEbberstein, of Memphis, Tenn., who is also a guest of Miss Watters, will remain for a short while.

Little Miss Wyolene Purtell, who is a guest of the Tarrymoore Hotel, possesses rare powers of elocution, and entertains very delightfully the guests of the hotel with her recitations. Her charm of manner and sweet childish simplicity add much to the pleasure of her recitations.

Colonel and Mrs. William J. Cotton have returned from Europe and are at the Waldorf-Astoria. Mrs. Cotton and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Latimer, will leave in a few days for Loon Lake. Mrs. Cotton's elder daughter, Mrs. S. Wynne Floulkes, whose marriage was a June event in the American colony of London, is in Atlantic City with Mr. Ffoulkes.

Wednesday night a firemen's ball was given at Lumina on Wrightsville Beach which was largely attended. The same evening the steamer Wilmington carried a very large crowd of pleasure seekers down the historic Cape Fear. The immense search light of the steamer Wilmington added greatly to the pleasure of Capt. Harper's patrons.

With all due respect to the judges of the automobile parade of last Wednesday, there are a great many who think that the car driven by Mrs. Edward H. Munson should have received the prize. Through some misunderstanding Mrs. Munson was a little late arriving at the place of meeting and the prizes were awarded before her beautifully decorated car was seen.

A gentleman from Norfolk who is now a visitor on Wrightsville Beach, speaks in the greatest praise of this resort, and says Virginia Beach near daughter, Mrs. S. Wynne Ffoulkes pared with Wrightsville Beach. Such utterances from strangers and visitors is always pleasant to those who feel an interest and know the merits of seaside resorts.

The progressiveness of the Consolidated Railway Light & Power Co., who desire to please patrons, is clearly demonstrated in the inauguration of a souvenir night at Lumina; each week some special evening is selected as souvenir night and very attractive Japanese parasols and fans are given to all pleasant visitors to Lumina. For the coming week the manager has quite a surprise in store in unusual decorations in which colored incandescents will play a conspicious part.

Miss Leila Hart, of Fayetteville, formerly of this city, and Mr. Henry P. Alderman, of Mount Airy, were married last week at the home of the bride on Russell street. The Rev. Watson M. Fairley, of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated. The marriage was a very quiet one, and only close relatives of the bride and groom were present. Mr. and Mrs. Alderman left on the noon train for Mount Airy, where they will make their home.

A very delightful tacky party was given at the Tarrymoore Hotel last week under the auspices of Miss Kate Moore, a charming young daughter of the proprietor of the hotel. Thirty or forty delighted little tots dressed in grotesque costumes made a merry scene of pleasure which was enjoyed by the older guests of the hotel as well as the participants. The prizes —three large boxes of Nunnally's Candy, were given to the successful competitors who well deserved the honor conferred on them.

Last Wednesday afternoon Mrs. John A. Arringdale was hostess of a beautiful tea given in compliment to her sister, Mrs. William H. Chambers, who is her guest on Wrightsville Beach. The Arringdale cottage was prettily decorated for the occasion and tempting seasonable refreshments were served. Mrs. Charles C. Chadbourn presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Arringdale was assisted by Mrs. Harry Woollcott, Mrs. Robert H. Gwaltney, Miss Nan Clark, Miss Rena Clark, Miss Isabel Clark and Miss Annie Gray Nash, of Tarboro.

Dyspepsia and indigestion not only attacks those of sedentary occupations, but also those engaged in the active pursuits of life, and these attacks seem as bad in one case as the other. The cure, however, operates successfully under all conditions as the following illustrates:

Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablet Association, 53 and 55 Worth St., New York, N. Y.

Gentlemen:

A friend who knew how I suffered from dyspepsia went to Dr. Green's drug store four or five weeks ago and got me a bottle of Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablets. I started taking them with little or no faith, for I had tried many medicines before without success; but it is a fact that my health began to improve almost at once.

And, mind you, I was greatly troubled with sour stomach, and there were very few things that agreed with me at all. I also suffered much from constipation and had to use cathartics with great frequency.

Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablets have made my troubles disappear and I am feeling better. The constipation and bowel trouble has also been relieved with the use of the little yellow pills that come with the tablets.

WASHINGTON MC NIEL,
214 Walnut Street, Wilmington, N. C.

Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablets 50 cents a bottle.

Dr. Richards' Laxocomfits 25 cents a bottle.

CLEANLY WOMAN.

Erroneously Thinks by Scouring Her Scalp That She Cures Dandruff.

Cleanly woman has an erroneous idea that by scouring the scalp, which removes the dandruff scales, she is curing the dandruff. She may wash her scalp every day, and yet have dandruff her life long, accompanied by falling hair, too. The only way in the world to cure dandruff is to kill the dandruff germ, and there is no hair preparation that will do that but Newbro's Herpicide. Herpicide by killing the dandruff germ, leaves the hair free to grow as healthy Nature intended. Destroy the cause and you remove the effect. Kill the dandruff germ with Herpicide. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

STATE GEOLOGIST'S EXHIBIT.

North Carolina Mineral Display In the Mines Building at Jamestown.

One of the most attractive exhibits in the Mines and Metallurgy building at the Jamestown exposition is that of North Carolina. The display is of interest to the scientist in that it contains many rare minerals and gems and some of rare crystallization. The collection and installation of this exhibit have been under the direct charge of Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, state geologist of North Carolina. The exhibit consists in the main of building stones, such as granite, marble and sandstone; mica, monazite and talc, for which North Carolina is especially noted; barytes, copper ores, kaolin, tin, chromite, specimens of abrasives, such as millstones or buhrstones, corundum and garnet, and quite an elaborate display of gems and precious stones, cut and uncut.

Mica has also a prominent place among the North Carolina minerals, and the North Carolina mica is regarded as standard.

North Carolina is well supplied with mineral waters of various medicinal qualities, and these are well represented in bottled form by the many owners.

Other economic minerals, as copper, gold, silver, barytes, graphite, coal, iron, chromite, etc., are displayed prominently, and many minerals of interest to the scientist, as feldspar, flexible sandstone or itacolumite, the ores or uranium, etc., are included in this exhibit.

The portion of the exhibit that has appealed most strongly to all who enter the Mines building is the splendid array of gems and precious stones. These collections have been furnished by Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, state geologist; American Gem and Pearl company of New York, and the state museum. The two gems found exclusively in North Carolina, rhodolite and hiddenite, are eagerly sought, and the splendid array of rubies, garnets, amethysts, emeralds, emerald matrix, beryls, including the golden blue and aquamarine, corundum gems, rutilated rose and opalescent quartz, oligoclase, carnelians, cairngorms, sunstones, etc., has excited keen interest. About twenty diamonds have been found in the state, one of which is shown in this collection.

NORTH CAROLINA FURNITURE.

Fine Display In the States' Exhibit Palace at the Jamestown Exposition.

North Carolina has become famed in many directions and for many reasons, and not the least of these is on account of her furniture and textile factories. With the display of the varied industries of the state at the Jamestown exposition there is a fine exhibit along these lines of manufacture. These departments are in charge of Aaron R. Chisholm, who understands the business thoroughly and who has arranged the exhibits in a very artistic manner.

The cotton fabric interests of North Carolina are among the most important in the state. These are completely covered by the textile display, several thousand specimens being shown in the stacks and cases, and more than a hundred mills are represented.

The furniture department shows a collective exhibit from the numerous factories of the state in suits and oddities and also the woods in the different stages of manufacture.

Most of the cabinet woods of the state are employed in this furniture manufacture. You will see a number of very pretty and useful articles and will realize—perhaps for the first time, unless you are from North Carolina—that that state is by no means unknown in the world which the exhibits in this department represent.

North Carolina Expenditures.

The state of North Carolina appropriated the sum of $50,000 for its representation at the Jamestown exposition. Of this amount $25,000 was expended in constructing and furnishing the building, a portion of the furniture in the building being donated. The remaining $25,000 was expended in securing, transporting and installing exhibits and was apportioned as follows: Agriculture, horticulture, forestry and fish exhibit, under the supervision of T. K. Bruner, secretary of the agricultural department of the state, $9,200; textiles and furniture, under the direct control of Colonel Pogue and the immediate management of A. R. Chisholm, $4,500; mines and metallurgy exhibit, under the supervision of Dr. Joseph Hyde Pratt, state geologist, $3,000; historical exhibit, in charge of Mrs. Lindsay Patterson of Winston-Salem, assisted by Misses Hinton and Schenck of Raleigh and Greensboro, respectively, $2,000; educational exhibit, under J. Y. Joyner, superintendent of public schools of North Carolina, $1,000. In addition to the above, there was an appropriation of $5,000 by the legislature for the benefit of the negroes of the state, with which to secure their exhibit for the Negro building.

North Carolina Education.

The educational exhibit of the state of North Carolina at the Jamestown exposition is a complete demonstration of the educational methods employed in the various parts of the state and graphically represents the public school system of the state. The exhibit consists of pictures, charts, maps and the handiwork of the students. The largest and most interesting picture is one representing the University of North Carolina at Chappel Hill. Here are shown the entire campus and surrounding country. Charts and statistics under this picture show the wonderful growth of the university since its inception in 1876.

In Gardening Time.

By ALICE LOUISE LEE.

Copyright, 1906, by Alice Louise Lee.

THEY lay side by side, two long, narrow strips of plowed land separated by a woven wire fence. Tall, well trimmed hedges at either end screened them from the two parallel streets of the village; tall, well kept hedges at the sides screened them from the houses of their owners. Facing each other in the side hedges were small iron gates, entrances to these prosaic plots of ground.

On May 15, at 5:30 in the morning, the gate in the south hedge opened with a squeak, and a trim figure of decidedly scant dimensions stepped briskly through. A short blue denim skirt, a bit faded and worn, barely reached the tops of stout, thick soled, dew proof shoes. The sleeves of a blue calico shirt waist were pushed above the elbows, while concealed in the depths of an enormous blue sunbonnet was a small tanned face crowned by brown hair coiled tightly in convenient workaday fashion on top of her head. In one hand she carried a tin pail full of pieces of potato, "sets" for planting; in the other a hoe which had seen much service.

Beside the dividing fence she began work on the potato row, digging away so industriously that she did not hear the gate in the opposite hedge open and was unconscious of any disturbing element in her Eden until a cheery "Good morning, Ann," caused her sunbonnet to bob up hastily.

"Good morning," she returned in a faint and wondering tone.

On the other side of the woven wire stood a man, also in blue denim, but it was surprisingly new. So were his big straw hat and his bright tin pail, full of potato sets, and his hoe. So also was his method of preparing for a potato crop on his side of the fence.

"I made up my mind," he began, vigorously thrusting his hoe into the dirt, "that this year I'd get outdoors more. It's not good for me, this staying in the store all day. I'm going to do my own gardening."

"Are you?" came in a faint voice from the sunbonnet. It was a troubled voice. Ann was afraid of Stephen Long because his eyes twinkled and danced to the accompaniment of a fun loving tongue. Belle could cope with him, "giving him back," in the parlance of Bridgeport, "as good as he sent."

For a few moments the only sound heard in the garden was the click of two hoes—one a loud, strong, but uncertain click; the other light, but sure. Presently Stephen wiped the perspiration from his forehead and looked with an exclamation of dismay into the regular, shallow holes, the product of Ann's brown hands.

"Jerusalem!" he ejaculated. "Is that the way you do? See here!"

Ann glanced over the fence, and the sight caused her internal mirth. Next she inventoried the new tin pail, and her mirth became external. Their usual positions were reversed. All the dance and twinkle departed from Stephen's gray eyes, and he sent a look of comic dismay into the capacious sunbonnet.

"I've made every hole deep enough to plant old Hickory in," he said ruefully. Hickory was an enormous cat that played havoc with the rats in Long's hardware store.

"And you've—gone—and cut—the eyes out of your potatoes!" gasped Ann. Then she clung to a post supporting the wire fence and laughed. Her sunbonnet slipped back, revealing two pink cheeks and a small, delicate chin.

Stephen chuckled in sympathy and came nearer. "Why, confound it all, I cut the eyes out because—well, because they didn't look pretty, I suppose. Isn't that all right?"

At this Ann laughed until the sunbonnet collapsed in a heap into a potato hole back of her. Then she checked herself and explained: "The sprouts come out of the eyes. If you don't leave the eyes, you'll get no potatoes. See?"

"Yes; I see." His visual interest centered, however, on the speaker rather than on the eyeless potatoes. "Say," he suggested suddenly, "let's swap work this morning. I'll help you plant, and then you help me cut the sets."

"All right," agreed Ann. She turned to recover her sunbonnet and so failed to see the expression of satisfaction which overspread Stephen's face as he placed a hand on top of the post and vaulted the low fence.

When, an hour later, they sat beside the hedge over a basket of potatoes provided by Stephen, matters grew worse. He did not cut the sets correctly. His fingers were all thumbs, and he came perilously near having one less to get in his way while cutting his fourth potato.

Ann bound up the cut dexterously. Then she "set her foot down." "You hand me the potatoes, and I'll cut 'em," she said decidedly and fell to work with a will.

Stephen obeyed. "Seems to me you are rather little to be bossing your elders," he said, with a flash of his much dreaded fun.

Ann hung her head and blushed uncomfortably. She considered it a disgrace to be so small, an opinion shared by her dressmaker.

"It's much as ever that I can find where Ann Wright's waist begins or ends," complained the latter individual bitterly. "She's all waist. Might's well try to fit a broomstick. Best I can do is to hang her clothes on her and let it go at that. With her sister Belle, now, it's different."

So Ann meekly accepted the dressmaker's hangings and surveyed with longing Belle's plump proportions. She sighed the morning of May 16 as, at 5 o'clock, she donned her short blue denim skirt and looked at her small but muscular arms, white down to the elbows and brown beyond. She took pride and comfort in her garden, but she wished her hands were as white as Belle's.

Her face lighted as she opened the gate in her hedge and saw Stephen leaning on one of the line fence posts impatiently awaiting her. In his new role as gardener, with overalls and big hat and with that odd expression of dependence on his clean cut face, he did not seem to her half as formidable as the Stephen Long who had for ten years gayly sauntered through the hearts of half the girls in Bridgeport, his own untouched; danced at their weddings and stood godfather to their babies.

"I tell you what," he began as soon as Ann appeared, "I'm glad to see some one looming over the horizon who knows a trifle about gardening. What are you going to plant next?"

"Nothing," replied Ann promptly. "This morning I'm going to sow things—onions, for instance."

To her own surprise, her voice was mischievous. A strange feeling of buoyancy possessed her. The sun was sending red heralds up from the east to proclaim a perfect day. Belle was asleep, unconscious of the drama of the garden, and Stephen—well, Stephen's eyes were smiling at her, but not just as they smiled on the public at large.

"Mother isn't up yet," he began hesitatingly, "so I brought along a rag and a string"— He paused and held a hand out to her appealingly. It was the member wounded the previous morning.

Ann promptly dropped her hoe and attended to her surgery.

"Say," began Stephen suddenly, watching the operation, "do you always wear that bonnet in the garden?"

"Yes," returned Ann innocently, "always."

Stephen sighed. "I should think it would be awfully hot away back in there," meditatively gazing within as Ann raised her head.

But the bonnet slowly shaken was the only reply. In some ways its wearer could not see beyond its projecting sides. For fifteen minutes silence reigned in the gardens. Ann worked with her back to the wire fence lest Belle should chance to see her through the little gate. She drew the end of her hoe handle along the smoothed surface of her yard square onion plot and was carefully dropping the seeds when a voice of triumph sounded behind her:

"I've finished mine. Now what are you going to plant next?" There was a step beside her, and the voice of triumph became a voice of dismay. "Jeru-sa-lem! Is that the way you fix 'em?"

Ann turned and glanced into the next garden. "Yes. What have you done?"

Stephen stuffed his hands deep in his overalls pockets. "Me? Why, I sowed 'em broadcast." He removed one hand and motioned as though sowing oats.

Again Ann was convulsed with mirth. "How—how would you weed them if they came up thick all over?"

Stephen wormed a toe into the soft soil. "Weed! Why, I never thought about the weeding. I think," quite humbly, "that I better stick to the store and give up gardening."

Ann's heart unaccountably sank. So did her sunbonnet.

"No, I won't, either," with sudden energy. "If you'll bolster me up with advice, I'll stick to it."

Ann's heart unaccountably arose. So did her sunbonnet.

"Let's swap work this morning," proposed Stephen a moment later, and Ann agreed.

Next morning shortly after five she found Stephen smoothing over her carrot plot just south of the onions. "I thought I'd begin," he explained a little shamefacedly, "in your garden so you would help me. I don't know what to do with the pesky seeds. Either I'd plant 'em in a trench so deep they'd never hear the last trump or else I'd scatter 'em over the top to the four winds and the breezes between!"

After the gardens were planted there was no reasonable excuse for arising at 5 o'clock until the weeds appeared. Therefore, Stephen, released from his early morning duties, often came up on the Wright porch warm evenings and entertained himself gayly with Belle's chatter, while Ann slipped away and wandered in the garden hunting weeds.

At last, after a heavy June rain, they came accompanied by the tender vegetable shoots—potatoes, beets, onions—and Ann arose again at 5 and repaired, sunbonneted, to the garden. Her heart fluttered a little as she unlatched the gate. "He will get some one else to do the hoeing surely," she told herself. But no.

He greeted her with a rueful face. "Say, I'm glad you're here," he proclaimed frankly. "Do you pull these weeds or hoe 'em out or put a charge of dynamite under 'em?"

Ann heard herself laughing happily. The hoeing season had begun.

On the Fourth of July the families Wright and Long enjoyed new potatoes and peas. Stephen's row of vines abounded in peas, while his potatoes were deficient. In Ann's garden the case was reversed.

"We'll swap," said Stephen promptly. Swapping had become a habit with him. Two weeks later both families regaled themselves on beet greens. They came from Stephen's garden, but no one knew save the two gardeners.

"My sweet corn will be ripe in two weeks," said Ann timidly as she took the greens. "There will be enough for us both."

Her predictions were correct, but antedating the ripening of the sweet corn was the picnic in the Bridgeport grove.

"Will you girls ride over with me?" asked Stephen, coming suddenly around the corner to the porch the evening before, as Ann was watering the flowers and Belle swinging in the hammock.

"I thought you had gone to the picnic."

Belle answered promptly in the affirmative, Ann tardily. After he had gone Belle yawned and remarked carelessly: "Three in that narrow buggy! How tiresome! If you'd not happened to be around"— She did not finish the remark. Belle never hurt intentionally.

Ann made no reply, but swallowed hard at a big lump which would not go down. All her invitations were accidents and came because she "happened to be around" Belle. Nothing would induce her to go to the picnic.

Therefore, the following morning, although she donned the denim skirt, she did not repair to the garden until 9 o'clock.

"Belle, I've concluded not to go to the picnic. There's hoeing that must be done in the garden."

"Bother the garden, Ann!" came back Belle's voice good naturedly. "You're wedded to that garden."

Ann did not hear. She had seized her hoe and fled down the walk and through the little hedge gate. No hoeing was needed, but she hoed desperately, checking the sobs and forcing back the tears until she heard Stephen's buggy roll down the road; then she dropped the hoe and retreated to the corn.

The great stalks towering above her head closed protectingly about her. The rustling of their leaves drowned the sound of the released sobs. She sank down and, pressing the sides of her bonnet together over her face, wept as though she were thirteen rather than twenty-three.

There was an ache in her heart which was out of all proportion to its apparent cause. In fact, she would not acknowledge the real cause even to herself until she heard her name from the end of the row in the midst of which she sat.

"Ann, what is the matter? Are you hurt?" Stephen pushed rapidly through the corn and stood looking with perplexed eyes down on the slight figure hiding beneath the big bonnet.

"I thought you had gone to the picnic," replied Ann's muffled tones.

"Yes, I went, but more lemons were needed, and I volunteered to come back after them because I wanted to ask you why you wouldn't go. You see, I knew no work was needed in the— Ann! Why, Ann, dear, you are crying!"

Stephen dropped on one knee beside her and, gently opening the bonnet, looked in on a little wet face.

"What is it, Ann?" he asked tenderly.

Stephen took a firmer hold on the sides of the sunbonnet and, tilting her head farther back, forced her to meet his eyes. "Tell me, dear girl," he pleaded.

"I—thought—you'd rather—take Belle—alone." Ann's tongue tripped in confusion over the words, while the blood reddened her cheeks.

Stephen laughed in sudden relief. His reply was irrelevant. "Take Belle alone! Why, Ann, dear, I confess now that I hate gardening, but I've tried every other way for five years to"—

His face, with the rest of the sentence, was lost in the depths of the sunbonnet.

CROSSES OF HONOR.

Daughters of Confederacy Will Present Tokens on August 23rd.

On the anniversary of the Fayetteville Independent Light Infantry, August 23d, Cape Fear Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, at the W. L. I. Armory, will present Crosses of Honor to the following veterans: W. A. Baggett, Co. B, Second Battalion, North Carolina Volunteers; W. L. Pridgen, Co. D, 36th Regiment, Artillery; S. R. Ward, Co. B, 36th Regiment; G. W. Williams, Co. F, Third Regiment. Duplicate crosses have been received for the following: H. C. Lumsden, J. A. White and O. A. Wiggins.

The first Cross of Honor to be bestowed upon the son of a Confederate veteran under the new dispensation of the United Daughters will be in the case of Mr. James W. Price, of this city, a son of the gallant Capt. Joseph Price, Confederate States Navy. This presentation will also take on the 23d of August.

NEGRO SOLDIERS IN RIOT

Prominent Young Man at Mobile Francisco.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

San Francisco, August 10.—Soldiers of the 25th Infantry, the colored organization that figured in the Brownsville riot, created a disturbance on the "Barbary Coast" here last night and at one time it was feared a riot would result. The riot call was sounded for extra police and eighteen of the negroes were arrested on charges of disturbing the peace.

The 25th, which has been stationed at the Presidio, will leave for the Philippines on the transport Crook.

LUMBERTON NEWS NOTES.

Crops are Good—Convicts for Railroad Construction—Other Items.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Aug. 10.—From reports received from different parts of the county, the outlook for good crops is very promising, barring the localities which have been damaged by hail. The seasons are all that could be desired for cotton, corn and sweet potatoes.

Fifty convicts arrived here Thursday to work on the Virginia and Carolina Southern Railroad, the majority of them being white men, and your correspondent is told that none of them is serving a term for less than twenty years. It is expected this road will be completed to St. Paul's by the middle of September or the first of October, in time anyway to move the crop of cotton from that place, which is quite an important item.

Work is progressing satisfactorily on the Lumberton Graded School bulding.

Mrs. Edens, wife Prof. E. L. Edens, of Marietta, 15 miles south of here, died yesterday evening at 6 o'clock, after a lingering illness.

Many of our people attended the firemen's tournament this week, and report a most enjoyable trip.

THE BEACH SCHEDULE.

Several Changes in Effect Beginning Next Wednesday Morning.

Effective on Wednesday, August 14th, several changes will be made in the operation of cars and trains on the suburban line of the Consolidated Company. The last trip from the beach will be change from 12:45 A. M. to 11:45 P. M., an hour earlier. Also on that date the car which leaves Wilmington at 7 A. M. on Sundays will be discontinued so that the first trip on Sundays will be at 8:30 A. M. Although these cars were very convenient for a few, the patronage was not sufficient to continue them through the season. The public is asked to bear these changes in mind.

WARM WIRELETS.

Prince Scipione Gorghese, of Italy, reached Paris at 3:30 P. M. yesterday from Pekin, which city he left in the race for the French capital June 10th. He was cheered by thousands as he passed along the boulevards in his travel stained machine.

The Clearfield Lumber Company, of Clearfield, Pa., closed a deal yesterday for 30,000 acres of walnut, oak and poplar timber lands in Morgan County, Ky., for $100,000. It is announced that the company will extend a line of railroad 18 miles up Rush Branch and will spend $1,000,000 in developments.

Galveston, Tex., Aug. 10.—The telegraph operators of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies went onstrike in Galveston today. About forty men are affected. At the Western Union two chiefs and three operators remained at work and at the Postal the manager was the only one to remain.

Judge Page Morris in the United States District Court at Mineapolis, Minn., yesterday, fined the Wsconsin Central Railway Company $17,000 for rebating, of which it was convicted last April. Burton Johnson and G. T. Huey, freight officials of the road, were fined $2,000 and $1,000, respectively, for paying rebates to shippers.

The application of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad for an injunction restraining the United State Inter-State Commerce Commission from enforcing an order compelling the railroad to deliver oil to an independent firm in Brooklyn, N. Y., was dened by Judge Lacombe, in the United States Circuit Court, in New York city yesterday.

A desperate attempt was made to take the life of Vincent Zavatt, an Italian banker of New York, early yesterday by dynamiting his home at Mineola, L. I., and shooting at him when he appeared at the window after the explosion. Zavatt escaped injury. The front of the house was practically wrecked. Mr. Zavatt has recently aided the county officials in the prosecution of Italian criminals and the attack is thought to have been made in revenge.

listed men. Cots will be furnished to officers and mattresses to all enlisted men by the Exposition Company.

As stated, the special over the Coast Line will leave the Front street depot at 12:01, proceeding to destination on as fast time as is consistent with saftey, etc. The first stop will be at Warsaw, where the Wilmington special will pick up the Clinton company and Hospital Corps, which will arrive at 1:50 A. M. At Goldsboro Company E will be taken on board, while Company D, of Goldsboro, will leave at 12:01 A. M. over the Norfolk and Southern. At 3:42 A. M. the Wilmington Special will pick up Company K of Wilson. At 5 o'clock the Wilmington special will pick up Company A, of Tarboro, proceeding on to Norfolk, and arriving there at about 9 A. M., when the troops will immediately go into camp. The Kinston company will be picked up by the Goldsboro special over the Norfolk and Southern, and these with the Washington Company G, Edenton and the Kinston Band will travel together to Norfolk. The Fayetteville Company F will also move out on a past midnight special over the Raleigh and Southport road via Raleigh. Lumber Bridge Company L will leave on Train 66 of the Coast Line, arriving at Rocky Mount at 2:27 A. M. and connecting there with the Wilmington Special. Company M, of Maxton, will leave on the Seaboard at 2:45 A. M.

The Third Regiment companies will be moved on 12:01 specials largely over the Southern and Seaboard Air Line, making about the same time as the Second Regiment in reaching Norfolk.

The First Regiment of the National Guard went to the rifle range at Camp Glenn, near Morehead City, on Thursday of the past week, but will leave there for the Exposition on Tuesday, 13th, at 8 P. M. Lieut. Thos. R. Orrell and Private A. T. Gibbons, of the W. L. I., have been with the First Regiment at Morehead since the middle of the week. After the encampment they will proceed to Camp Perry, O., for the National target practice, Lieut. Orrell being in command of the regimental squad and Mr. Gibbons representing the Wilmington Light Infantry at the National shoot.

The Naval Reserves.

The Naval Reserves are ordered to report tonight at 10:30 o'clock at their armory for the purpose of being ready to move with the infantry. They will carry only their small arms, and will wear blue uniforms and leggings. The Division is in good shape and hopes to carry fully 75 per cent. of the enlisted men. The roster of the Division as it will move as nearly as possible will be as follows:

Booth Party to Be Given.

A "Booth Party" will be given next Thursday evening on the lawn of the parsonage of Fifth Street M. E. Church by the N. N. S. Society for the benefit of the church improvement fund. It promises to be a most delightful affair and all friends are invited. There will be a number of booths, where various articles will be sold and refreshments served, while one very attractive feature will be a gypsy tent, where young ladies in costume, will endeavor to reveal the future to all patrons. Friends are asked not to forget the date and make engagements so as to be able to attend.

SPIRITS TURPENTINE

—Fayetteville Observer: Mr. J. H. Myrover, of this city, will deliver the address in the 23rd instant at the reunion at Lillington of the Averasboro Battle Chapter, U. D. C., of which Mrs. W. L. Williams is president. There will also be a picnic and presentation of crosses of honor.

—The first annual session of the North Carolina Tobacco Growers' Association assembled at Pilot Mountain on Friday with an attendance of 500. The association has 3,100 members. Among other business, a resolution was adopted commending President Roosevelt for indicting the Tobacco Trust. The association will meet in Raleigh next year.

—Fayetteville Observer: The descendants of Daniel McKinnon, who came from Scotland about 1788, will have a reunion and basket picnic at Caledonia on August 20th. There are a great number of the descendants of Mr. McKinnon, some living in almost every State in the Union, and other than McKinnons, McCormicks, McLeans, McNeills, McLaurins, McArthurs, McIntyres, Blues, Wrights, Grahams, Bradys.

—Reidsville, August 9: While en route to his home five miles north of Reidsville this afternoon, Mr. Green Craddock was struck by lightning and instantly killed. He and Mr. W. B. Williams took shelter under a barn during the severe electrical storm. Mr. Williams was badly shocked and burned about the face, but soon regained consciousness and will recover. Mr. Craddock's age is about 50 years and he leaves a wife and eight children.

—Lumberton Robesonian: Final arrangements have been completed for a soil survey of Robeson county, the work to begin about the first of October. The Department, in co-operation with the North Carolina Agricultural Department, will do the work and a corps of engineers will be sent to t ehcounty for that purpose. It will take about six months to complete the work. A complete map will be made of the county and published in a book containing a detailed statement of all the advantages and resources of the county.

—Selma, August 9: Ransom Godwin, who Wednesday morning of this week brutally murdered his wife at their home near Kenly, is still at large, though every effort is being made to capture him. Sheriff Nowell received a message this afternoon from a reliable party near the Godwin home saying Godwin was located in an outhouse near his home and was surrounded. The sheriff immediately started for the place with a number of special deputies, but up to a late hour his capture had not been effected. Godwin has a large circle of relations who, it is claimed, are assisting in every way possible to make good his escape. Bloodhounds were put on his track and did much loud barking for the distance of about a mile, when they lost the scent entirely. It is believed that on account of his age he will not be able to effect a permanent escape, but will soon be brought to justice.

—Asheville, August 9: Another attempt at suicide was made here this morning shortly before 10 o'clock when Boney Campbell, a carpenter 40 years of age, shot himself through the right side of the head near the temple. The would-be suicide is now at the Mission Hospital with about an even chance for recovery. Campbell made most careful preparation for the act. He wrote a note instructing that his trunk be not searched, saying that the money in the pocket book on the table was all that he had. Before sending the bullet into his head Campbell dressed himself as if for some social function. He donned his best suit of clothes, clean collar and cuffs and choicest cravat. He even took the precaution to place a bowl from the washstand near where he had placed himself to fire the intended fatal shot. The man's markmanship, however, was bad. The bullet that was intended for the right temple was fired a little too low and entered the side of the face near the cheek bone. No cause has been assigned for the rash act although it is said that the man has not been in good health for some time and that he was frequently despondent. His wife is now in the insane asylum.

—Fayetteville Observer, August 9: A telegram to The Observer from Wilson this afternoon, says that Justice Connor, of the Supreme Court, released Mr. Matthew Seawell from custody, simply requiring him to give a bond of $100 for his appearance at the next term of the Superior Court of Cumberland county. Seawell was taken to Wilson on the shoo-fly early this morning by Sheriff Watson, and was accompanied by his wife and little child, and his attorney, Mr. A. S. Hall. It will be remembered that Seawell was arrested last Saturday, with two other white men, charged with the capital crime of burglary, in entering a number of houses on Massey's Hill the night before. The three men were tried before 'Squire Overby, and Seawell was bound over to court without bail, on a charge of burglary, while the other two men were discharged. All three men slept in Seawell's house on the Tolar-Hart hill the night of the burglaries, and from this house tracts led in the direction of the houses robbed, which it was alleged corresponded with Seawell's tracts. Seawell admitted walking out of his house in his bare feet that night, but denied strenuously that he had any knowledge whatever of the burglaries. He bears an excellent reputation.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE girls on the yacht had no expectation that Captain Kempt would come back with the two young men, but when through their powerful binoculars the girls became aware that Drummond and the prince were in the small boat they both fled to the chief saloon and sat there holding one another's hands. Even the exuberant Kate for once had nothing to say. She heard the voice of her father on deck, giving command to the mate.

"Make for Stockholm, Johnson. Take my men-o'-war's men—see that no one else touches the ammunition—and fling the shells overboard. Heave the gun after them and then clear out the rifles and ammunition the same way. When we reach Stockholm tomorrow morning there must not be a gun on board this ship, and the ridiculous rumor that got abroad among your men that we were going to attack something or other you will see is entirely unfounded. You impress that on them, Johnson."

"I tell you what it is, captain," sounded the confident voice of the prince. "This vessel is a beauty. You have done yourself fine. I had no idea you were such a sybarite. Why, I've been aboard the czar's yacht, and I tell you it's nothing— Great heavens, Katherine!" he shouted in a voice that made the ceiling ring.

She was now standing up and advanced toward him with both hands held out, a welcoming smile on her pretty lips, but he swooped down on her, flung his arms round her like a cabman beating warmth into his hands, kissed her on the brow, the two cheeks and the lips, swaying her back and forward as if about to fling her upstairs.

"Stop, stop!" she cried. "Aren't you ashamed of yourself? Before my father too! You great Russian bear!"

"Don't bother about me, Kate," said her father. "That's nothing to the way we acted when I was young. Come on, boys, to the smoking room, and I'll mix you something good—real Kentucky, twenty-seven years in barrel—and I've got all the other materials for a Manhattan."

"Jack, I am glad to see you," panted Katherine, all in disarray, which she endeavored to set right by an agitated touch here and there. "Now, Jack, I'm going to take you to the smoking room, but you'll have to behave yourself as you walk along the deck. I won't be made a spectacle of before the crew."

"Come along, Drummond," said the captain, "and bring Miss Dorothy with you."

But Drummond stood in front of Dorothy Amhurst and held out his hand.

"You haven't forgotten me, Miss Amhurst, I hope?"

"Oh, no," she replied, with a very faint smile, taking his hand.

"It seems incredible that you are here," he began. "What a lucky man I am. Captain Kempt takes his yacht to rescue his son-in-law that is to be and incidentally rescues me as well, and then to find you here! I suppose you came because your friend Miss Kempt was aboard?"

"Yes, we are all but inseparable."

"I wrote you a letter, Miss Amhurst, the last night I was in St. Petersburg in the summer."

"Yes, I received it."

"No, not this one. It was the night I was captured, and I never got a chance to post it. It was an important letter—for me."

"I thought it important—for me," replied Dorothy, now smiling quite openly. "The nihilists got it, searching your room after you had been arrested. It was sent on to New York and given to me."

"Is that possible? How did they know it was for you?"

"I had been making inquiries through the nihilists."

"I wrote you a proposal of marriage, Dorothy."

"It certainly read like it; but, you see, it wasn't signed, and you can't be held to it."

He reached across the table and grasped her two hands.

"Dorothy, Dorothy," he cried, "do you mean you would have cabled 'Yes?'"

"No."

"You would not?"

"Of course not. I should have cabled 'Undecided.' One gets more for one's money in sending a long word. Then I should have written"— she paused, and he cried eagerly:

"What?"

"What do you think?" she asked.

"Well, do you know, Dorothy, I am beginning to think my incredible luck will hold and that you'd have written 'Yes.'"

"I don't know about the luck. That would have been the answer."

He sprang up, bent over her, and she quite unaffectedly raised her face to his.

"Oh, Dorothy!" he cried.

"Oh, Alan," she replied, with quivering voice, "I never thought to see you again! You cannot imagine the long agony of this voyage and not knowing what had happened."

"It's a blessing, Dorothy, you had learned nothing about the Trogzmondoff."

"Ah, but I did. That's what frightened me. We have a man on board who was flung for dead from that dreadful rock. The Baltic saved him; his mother, he calls it."

Drummond picked her up in his arms and carried her to the luxurious divan which ran along the side of the large room. There they sat down together, out of sight of the stairway.

"Did you get all of my letters?"

"I think so."

"You know I am a poor man?"

"I know you said so."

"Don't you consider my position poverty? I thought every one over there had a contempt for an income that didn't run into tens of thousands."

"I told you, Alan, I had been unused to money, and so your income appears to me quite sufficient."

"Then you are not afraid to trust in my future?"

"Not the least. I believe in you."

"Oh, you dear girl! If you knew how sweet that sounds! Then I may tell you. When I was in London last I ran down to Dartmouth, in Devonshire. I shall be stationed there. You see, I have finished my foreign cruising, and Dartmouth is, for a time at least, to be my home. There's a fine harbor there, green hills and a beautiful river running between them, and I found such a lovely old house—not grand at all, you know, but so cozy and comfortable, standing on the heights overlooking the harbor in an old garden filled with roses, shrubs and every kind of flower; vines clambering about the ancient house. Two servants would keep it going like a shot. Dorothy, what do you say?"

Dorothy laughed quietly and whole heartedly.

"It reads like a bit from an old English romance. I'd just love to see such a house."

"You don't care for this sort of thing, do you?" he asked, glancing round about him.

"What sort of thing?"

"This yacht, these silk panelings, these gorgeous pictures, the carving, the gilt, the horribly expensive carpet."

"You mean should I feel it necessary to be surrounded by such luxury? I answer most emphatically, no. I like your ivy covered house at Dartmouth much better."

For a moment neither said anything. Lips cannot speak when pressed together.

"Now, Dorothy, I want you to elope with me. We will be in Stockholm long before daylight tomorrow at the rate this boat is going. I'll get ashore as soon as practicable and make all inquiries at the consulate about being married. I don't know what the regulations are, but if it is possible to be married quietly, say in the afternoon, will you consent to that and then write a letter to Captain Kempt thanking him for the trip on the yacht, and I'll write thanking him for all he has done for me, and after that we'll make for England together. I've got a letter of credit in my pocket which luckily the Russians did not take from me. I shall find all the money we need at Stockholm, then we'll cross the Swedish country, sail to Denmark, make our way through Germany to Paris, if you like, or to London. We sha'n't travel all the time, but just take nice little day trips, stopping at some quaint old town every afternoon and evening."

"You mean to let Captain Kempt, Katherine and the prince go to America alone?"

"Of course. Why not? They don't want us, and I'm quite sure we—well, Dorothy, we'd be delighted to have them, to be sure—but still I've knocked a good deal about Europe, and there are some delightful old towns I'd like to show you, and I hate traveling with a party."

Dorothy laughed so heartily that her head sank on his shoulder.

"Yes, I'll do that," she said at last. And they did.

THE END.

HORNER MILITARY SCHOOL,

1851-1907

Classical, Scientific and English Courses. Prepares for college, university or the government academies. Military training develops prompt obedience and manly carriage. Academy 56 years old with experienced teachers and limit of 90 boarding pupils, who dine with the principal and ladies of his family, securing the culture of home life. Cultivates and educates. Modern buildings, perfect sanitation, wholesome fare, no crowding. Best moral, mental, physical and social training. Shady lawns, athletic park, one-quarter mile running track. Ideal climate, helpful environment. In the social atmosphere of refined Christian people. The town noted for over a century as an educational center. Charges $280 per year.

From Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice Supreme Court of North Carolina:

Horner's School has done a great work for North Carolina. Successful men who obtained their first training there are to be found everywhere. I am glad to know that the State has shown its appreciation by continuing its large patronage of your excellent school.

From Hon. H. G. Connor, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina:

I have been a patron of Horner School for four years with the most satisfactory results in every respect. The training—mental and physical—the discipline and general development of my son was all that I could desire, and in full keeping with the high reputation whch the school has enjoyed for many years. I cordially commend it to all parents having sons and to all guardians.

From Geo. H. Brown, Associate Justice Supreme Court of North Carolina:

I was prepared for college at the Horner School at Oxford, North Carolina, when the revered and honored Jas. H. Horner was its principal. The School since his death has taken on the military feature and is under the efficient management of Prof. Jerome C. Horner, the son of the late Jas. H. Horner. I can say without exaggeration that no better school for boys for college preparation can be found. In fact, if a youth goes conscientiously and faithfully through the curriculum of that school he can get along very well without a collegiate course.

From Hon. Platt D. Walker, Associate Justice of Supreme Court of North Carolina:

It was my good fortune to be prepared for college at the Horner School. At that time the school ranked easily with the foremost institutions of its kind in the South, and now, under he able management of Mr. Jerome C. Horner, a son of the former principal, it is equal to the best. Any boy who enters this institution of learning will always be surrounded by the best influences and advantages for moral, mental and physical training. It is an excellent school, and deserves to be strongly commended to public favor and patronage.

Opinions of Other Prominent Men.

From Hon. J. C. Pritchard, Judge U. S. Circuit Court:

It affords me great pleasure to commend Horner's Military School to the favorable consideration of the public. I regard it as one of the best military schools in the country. Having patronized your school, I feel that I am in a position to judge as to its standing.

From Ashley Horne, Ex-President North Carolina Agricultural Society:

I have been a patron of Horner Military School and I regard it as the preparatory school of the South. The experience of Prof. J. C. Horner, its principal, as teacher, disciplinarian and character builder is an inspiration to all young men and boys in shaping their future. A fine cultured Christian home for boys—I unhesitatingly commend it to the public.

From Mr. John Sorensen, Jensen, Florida:

I am glad that I sent my boy to your school, as it has certainly done him a world of good. Your school is the best that I know of to send a boy to if you want to make a man out of him. The strict rules prevailing is just what a boy needs.

From Rev. John S. Hardaway, D. D., Newnan, Ga.:

I gives me pleasure to say that I consider the Horner School one of the best preparatory schools I know. I had three sons in your school, and wish that my other boys might have the same advantages.

State of North Carolina,
Executive Department,
Raleigh, N. C.,
July 31, 1907.

Prof. J. C. Horner,
Horner Military School,
Oxford, N. C.

My Dear Sir:

Your father, James H. Horner, was one of the greatest educators in the State of North Carolina, aad I feel that under your mansgement the school has lost none of its former thoroughness, but has even improved, and is today one of the best schools in the State in which young men can be prepared for our colleges and University.

When to this you add its military training and the patriotism there taught, it ranks it in the very forefront of the educational institutions of the State. Without hesitation I commend it to public favor.

Yours very truly,
R. B. GLENN,
Governor

Opinions from our University and Colleges.

From Hon. Francis P. Venable, LLD., President of the University of North Carolina:

The Horner Military School annually sends a number of its pupils to the University of North Carolina, and among them are some of our best students. Their standing in scholarship proves that the training received in your school is excellent. We regard it as one of the best preparatory schools in the State.

From Hon. Geo. T. Winston, LL. D., President of the North Carolina College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, Raleigh, N. C.:

The Horner Military School ranks among the best high-grade academies in the South. With a record and experience of fifty years, with a list of alumni eminent in all the walks of life, with a location perfect for climate, health and sanitation, the school is an ideal place for boys seeking high-grade education.

From Chas. E. Brewer, Professor of Chemistry, Wake Forest College, North Carolina:

For twenty years—as schoolmate or teacher—I have been associated with students from the "Horner Military School." Am pleased to say that students from this school are uniformly well prepared and stand among the foremost in college. "He is a Horner man," is a first-class introduction here.

From J. B. Carlisle, Professor of Latin, Wake Forest College:

Students from Horner Military School who have entered Wake Forest have uniformly shown thorough preparation in Latin. I consider it one of the best preparatory schools in North Carolina.

From Hon. Eben Alexander, LL. D., Professor of Greek, University of North Carolina:

Since 1886 it has been my good fortune to teach students prepared for the University at the Horner Military School. These students have been, with the rarest exceptions, thoroughly traind; and, in the few exceptions, the trouble has always been with the boy, not with the school.

Opinions of Other Prominent Men.

From W. G. Elliott, Ex-President Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, Baltimore:

I have been a patron of the Horner Military School at Oxford, N. C., and take great pleasure in endorsing it as a first-class, well-equipped and well-managed preparatory school. Its location is a healthy and attractive one.

From H. G. Merry, General Manager Montana Coal and Coke Company, Electric, Montana:

* * * It affords me pleasure to be favored with an opportunity to express my high opinion of your school, for I believe it ranks as one of the best for mental, moral and physical training for boys. Our two boys have made very satisfactory progress during the three years they have been in your charge, and we have two younger sons whom we hope to enter Horner Military School as soon as they are old enough.

From Chas. O'H. Laughinghouse, M. D., President Board Medical Examiners of North Carolina:

For thorough work, ideal discipline, pleasant social surroundings and healthy location Horner Military School is second to none in the South.

From Hon. F. M. Simmons, United States Senator:

My son attended Horner Military School for three years with excellent results. I regard the school as one of the best in the country.

EVERYTHING ELSE FAILED BUT RICHARDS FOR THIS CASE

The proof is the cure. The cure is in your own midst. Not away off amongst strangers. The strong claims for Dr. Richards Dyspepsia Tablets are established in Wilmington by Wilmington cures. Here is one of them:

Mary A. Sidbury, 706 Castle street, Wilmington, N. C., says

Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablet Association, 53 and 55 Worth street, New York.

Gentlemen:

"This medicine which I got at Dr. Green's Drug Store, benefitted me in a stubborn case of indigestion where other remedies failed. I desire to state, it is the best I have ever come across."

Yours truly,
MARY A. SIDBURY,
706 Castle Street, Wilmington, N. C.

Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablets 50 cents a bottle.

Dr. Richards' Laxocomfits 25 cents a bottle.

HUNGER AND FEAR OF FOOD

Hungry, consequently enfeebled, unless that hunger is appeased. This is the result of a dyspeptic condition where hunger is preferred to the distress and misery that come after eating.

You will get hungry but you need have no fear from eating a hearty meal to satisfy that hunger if you use Dr. Richards' Dyspepsia Tablets. They make good digestion wait on appetite and health on both.

Mrs. M. A. Futch, 13 Wooster street, Wilmington, N. C., says:

"I am very much pleased with the results obtained since using your remedy and am happy to state that I am now all right, enjoying my usual good health. I was so weak and in such a run-down condition that it was with difficulty that I kept up and around. I could scarcely eat anything although I was ravenously hungry all the time. I got a bottle at Dr. Green's Drug store and after a good, thorough trial, for I went at them with a determination to get well, I find them to be as represented. One splendid thing in their favor is, that you experience no bad after effects from them."

North Carolina Week at Jamestown Exposition.

GOVERNOR GLENN AND OTHER DISTINGUISHED MEN WILL PARTICIPATE IN THE CELEBRATION.

Folk of the Old North State Will Practically Own the Exposition—Grand Military and Naval Parade to Be Reviewed by the Governors of Three States and Famous Army and Navy Officers—The North Carolina Building.

BEGINNING Aug. 12 and continuing to Aug. 18, the people of North Carolina will practically own the Jamestown Tercentennial exposition. That will be North Carolina week, and during that time especial pains will be taken to entertain and amuse the people of the Old North State. Aug. 15 will be North Carolina day, which will be royally celebrated. Governor Glenn and his staff, the members of the North Carolina commission and other distinguished men will be in attendance, together with the military and naval forces of the state and a band of Cherokee Indians from the reservation in North Carolina to make the programme interesting. Governor Glenn will make one of his characteristic human interest speeches.

A reception will be given at the North Carolina building, to be attended by many men of prominence in public life, together with every citizen of the state who may be there, and the building will be elaborately decorated in honor of the occasion. Electric illumination, fireworks and other special features will be in evidence upon this great occasion.

The detailed programme for the week is as follows:

The Official Programme.

Aug. 13.—Governor Glenn, staff and official party will arrive via Seaboard Air Line railway at Portsmouth about 5:30 p. m. They will be met at the station by a committee from the North Carolina society of Norfolk, who will escort them to their hotel in Norfolk, where they will be the guests of the North Carolina society.

Aug. 14.—At 10 a. m. the governor and party will be driven over the city of Norfolk in automobiles bearing the colors of the state of North Carolina.

1 p. m.—Upon the arrival of the governor of North Carolina at the expositi grounds he will be received at the gates by a reception committee consisting of the officials of the Jamestown Exposition company and escorted to the North Carolina State building, where he will remain during North Carolina week.

4 p. m.—The governor and official party will visit the North Carolina exhibits in the various exhibit palaces, where they will be received by members of the North Carolina commission.

Aug. 15.—At 11 a. m. the governor of North Carolina will leave the North Carolina State building, accompanied by his staff, members of the North Carolina commission and a military escort of the North Carolina state troops, arriving at the Auditorium building at 11:30 a. m., where the following exercises will take place:

Auditorium, 11:30 a. m.—Opening prayer by the Rev. Mr. Cheitzberg.

Music by the North Carolina Third Regiment band.

Hon. G. S. Powell, president of the North Carolina commission and master of ceremonies, will present Hon. St. George Tucker, president of the Jamestown Exposition company, who will deliver the address of welcome on behalf of the exposition.

Music.

Address by Lieutenant Governor Francis D. Winston of North Carolina.

Music.

Address by the Hon. Robert B. Glenn, governor of North Carolina.

Music.

Reviewing Stand, 5 p. m.—Review of soldiers and sailors by Governor Glenn of North Carolina, assisted by the governor of Virginia, governor of Massachusetts, Major General F. D. Grant, Admiral Harrington and other army and navy representatives.

8:30 to 11 p. m.—Reception to the governor of North Carolina by the North Carolina state commission at the North Carolina State building.

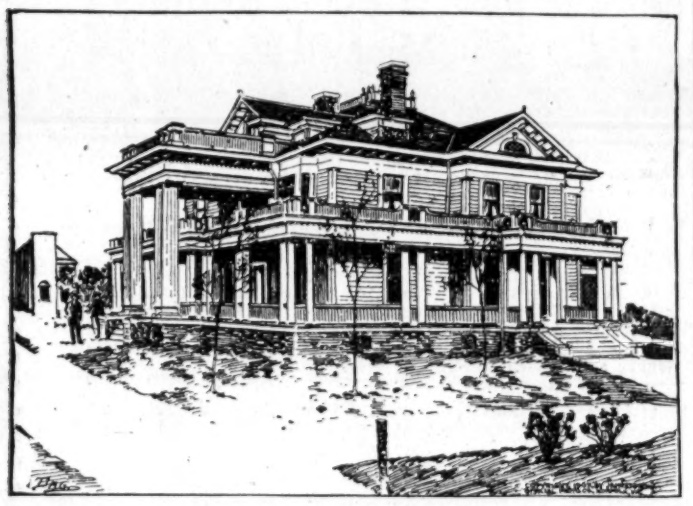
Governor Glenn's Proclamation.

From the executive department of the state of North Carolina at Raleigh recently came the following proclamation to the people of North Carolina and the United States generally concerning the Jamestown exposition and the possibilities of this pertinent celebration advertising the resources of America, especially the south:

From the substantial construction of the exhibition buildings at the Jamestown exposition and from the magnificent exhibits in said buildings I have every reason to believe and do believe that the exposition will be a great success and will advertise the resources of the south materially, agriculturally and educationally as they have never before been advertised. I therefore as governor of the state of North Carolina earnestly hope that all the citizens of our state will take an active part and interest in making the Jamestown exposition a great success, for in doing so they not only will be building up Virginia and the south generally, but give great impetus to a full advertisement of the resources of North Carolina.

On Aug. 15 North Carolina will have an exhibition day, and I earnestly desire every North Carolinian possible to be there and aid in making this state occasion a great success.

R. B. GLENN, Governor.



NORTH CAROLINA BUILDING.

North Carolina Building.

The North Carolina building at the Jamestown exposition is of colonial architecture and was erected at a cost of $23,000. It is an imposing structure, constructed upon a plot of ground 135 by 110 feet in size, situated on Willoughby Boulevard, east, and overlooks the broad waters of Hampton Roads. The building was designed by Zimmerman & Leister, architects, of Winston-Salem, N. C., and was constructed by J. D. Elliott, contractor, of Hickory, N. C. The building is three stories high and contains fourteen commodious apartments, a hallway on each floor and a number of closets and bathrooms.

The Vanderbilt Room.

To the right on entering the main hall is the Vanderbilt room, so called for the reason that the beautiful and expensive mission furniture it contains was presented by Mrs. George Vanderbilt. This furniture was made by the members of the Biltmore Industrial club, composed of the children of the workmen employed on the Vanderbilt estate near Asheville, and is a very interesting exhibit.

Just back of this room is another reception room finished after the mission style, with hardwood walls, like the Vanderbilt room. The furniture in this apartment is a gift from the White Furniture company.

In the lower hall hangs a board of North Carolina pine upon which is painted the following toast:

Here's to the land of the long leaf pine,
The summer land where the sun doth shine,
Where the weak grow strong and the strong grow great;
Here's to "Down Home," "The Old North State."

Complete In Every Detail.

When the thousands of Tar Heel visitors enter the portals of the exposition they will find awaiting them a most beautiful colonial city, complete in every detail and with each nook and corner replete with attractions of every variety and kind. There will be many great battleships and vessels of every description in the harbor of Hampton Roads, in view from the exposition grounds; there will be military drills and parades, and the sound of martial music will be heard everywhere. Flowers border every walk and drive, and the cool shade of the Canoe Trail is most enticing these fine summer days. The exhibits are interesting and instructive in the extreme, and days may be well spent in their study. The Old North State's resources appear to great advantage in the several exhibit buildings, and these alone are well worth a visit to the exposition. The exhibits of Virginia, South Carolina, Maryland and the score or more of other states are grand and comprehensive. The War Path is a round of instructive pleasure, the electric illumination a fairyland, and altogether, once seen, the Jamestown exposition gives a pleasant impression, never to be forgotten.

HISTORIC NORTH CAROLINA.

Theodosia Burr's Portrait and the Mystery of Her Death.

The North Carolina state historical exhibit, but recently installed in the History building at the Jamestown exposition, forms one of the most interesting and valuable collections of its kind at the Tercentennial and reflects great credit upon the state and those individuals who are responsible for its presence. The exhibit, which is partly under the auspices of the Wachovia Historic society, a Moravian organization of Winston-Salem, N. C., is under the direction of Miss Lindsay Patterson, chairman of the committee; Miss Schenck of Greensboro, Miss Mary Hinton of Raleigh and J. A. Linback of the Wachovia Historic society.

The Moravian exhibit is a most interesting collection of the handicraft and genius of the people of that denomination who settled in North Carolina in the early part of the eighteenth century and demonstrates their wonderful ingenuity. Among the relics of this exhibit is the first fire engine imported in this country; also one of the first printing presses, which was captured later by Cornwallis and used in the printing of his orders. Pottery, beadwork and pewter ware form an important part of the collection, which is exhibited for the first time outside of the city of Winston-Salem.

The state exhibit, which covers the entire early history of North Carolina from its beginning through the war of 1812, is replete with portraits of presidents, governors and statesmen who have been produced from within her borders; also famous documents, letters and silverware from many of the old families of the state.

Relics from the famous battles of Guilford Court House and Morse Creek bridge also form part of the exhibit. The portraits are among the most interesting of the exhibit, consisting of the noted John White collection of Indian pictures presented by Colonel B. H. Cameron, the portraits of President Jackson, Pope and Johnson, two of Reynolds' portraits and a famous portrait of Theodosia Burr by an unknown artist.

The portrait of Theodosia Burr, daughter of Aaron Burr, the saddest and most romantic character in American history, has a history too remarkable to pass over without some mention. Theodosia Burr (Mrs. Alston, wife of Governor Alston of North Carolina) set sail from Georgetown, N. C., to meet her father, Aaron Burr, in New York upon his arrival from Europe. The ship she sailed in was lost at sea, and nothing was ever known of the fate of this beautiful woman until recently, when the picture which now forms part of the history exhibit at the exposition was found in the possession of an old woman whose remarkable story proves without a doubt that Theodosia came to her death at the hands of pirates. The portrait was found in the shanty of a very old woman at Nags Head, N. C., who told the story of how a piratical crew lured ships on to the shallows by false lights, benefiting by the resulting wrecks. The painting found in her possession was given her by one of the pirates as his share of the booty taken from a ship that was without a doubt the one on which Theodosia Burr set sail never to be heard of again.

The collection of silver services presented by some of the most noted families of the state also adds greatly to the value of the collection. The exhibit in its entirety is one of the handsomest and best chosen which have been installed at the exposition and must be seen to be appreciated.

North Carolina Negro Exhibit.

North Carolina has contributed to the Jamestown exposition a most interesting negro exhibit, housed in the Negro building at the Tercentennial. Under the charge of the Rev. C. H. Williamson, commissioner general of the North Carolina negro exhibit, this display represents the work of every educational, industrial and religious institution in the state.

Most wonderful of all is the work done by the school for the colored deaf, dumb and blind, located at Raleigh. The needle and fancy work and the woodcarving and other handiwork of the unfortunate students of this institution have attracted the attention of the entire country.

The colleges and schools represented in the negro exhibit of North Carolina are as follows: School For the Colored Deaf, Dumb and Blind, Raleigh; Asheville graded school, Asheville; High Point Normal school, High Point; State Normal school, Elizabeth City; Roanoke Institute, Elizabeth City; Whitted graded school, Durham; St. Augustine's school, Raleigh; A. and M. college, Greensboro; Joseph K. Bride school, Enfield; Henderson Normal Institute and Shaw university, Raleigh.

Among the most interesting exhibits in the general display of North Carolina negro development is a collection of negro publications. The exhibit of African curios is also most interesting and unique.

Exposition Rates Reasonable.

District Passenger Agent J. H. Wood of the Southern Railway company at Asheville has returned from a several days' trip to the Jamestown exposition and declares that he was favorably impressed with the excellence of the exposition. He said that there was no reason for complaint; that the transportation facilities were entirely adequate; that hotel facilities were ample and that rates were reasonable. The exposition itself, Mr. Wood said, was interesting and instructive and sightseers could very pleasantly and profitably spend several days in and around Norfolk and the exposition grounds.—Citizen, Asheville, N. C.

NOW IN FULL SWING.

Jamestown Tercentennial Exposition Complete In All Details.

BEAUTIFUL COLONIAL CITY.

A Veritable Dreamland to the Visitor. In the Matter of Interesting Features Jamestown Leads All Other Expositions—Army and Navy Display.

Never before in the history of the country has there been held an exposition with so many attractive features as the Jamestown Tercentennial, now in full swing on the historic waters of Hampton Roads. The Tercentennial is now complete in all of its details and presents to the visitor a veritable dreamland. The immense exhibit palaces, state and government buildings, all of a permanent or semipermanent construction, set off with the most luxuriant trees and foliage, give to this exposition an appearance distinct from all of its predecessors.

Within an hour's ride by either boat or train are such places as Yorktown, where Cornwallis surrendered to the Continental army, and Jamestown island, the "cradle of America," where now remain only the old ruins of the first church in America. Just across the waters of Hampton Roads are located Old Point Comfort and Fort Monroe, the strongest and most important artillery station on the Atlantic coast, whose grim walls and winding moat make it one of the most picturesque spots in the country. These and many other places of historic interest give an appropriate setting to the Jamestown exposition, which commemorates the three hundredth anniversary of the first permanent English speaking settlement in America, the most important event in the history of modern times.

Owing to the fact that the Jamestown Tercentennial is the first celebration ever held on deep water in this country, there has been going on almost continually a grand naval spectacle of a kind such as America has never seen before. The entire North Atlantic fleet, under the command of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans, squadron by squadron, will rendezvous in Hampton Roads from time to time, giving the visitor to the exposition ample opportunity to see the strongest fleet of battleships in the world. There will at all times during the summer be at least six men-of-war in the roads.

The army as well as the navy is well represented at the Tercentennial, and daily parades by crack regiments of United States troops are to be seen on Lee's Parade, one of the largest and best equipped drill plains in the country. Stationed at the exposition grounds at present are the entire Twenty-third regiment of United States infantry, the Second squadron of the Twelfth United States cavalry and D battery of the Third field artillery. Several regiments of the national guard of various states, besides numerous military and semimilitary organizations, are encamped at the exposition from time to time. Each of these military organizations brings its own band, which, together with the exposition orchestras and bands, gives a continual and varied musical programme.

The government exhibits, housed in four handsome structures on the water front of the exposition, comprise one of the most complete and comprehensive displays of the work of the various departments of the government ever assembled. The individual states have also come forward at this exposition with their heartiest support and co-operation, and twenty of them have erected buildings to represent them at the Tercentennial, while practically every state is represented in exhibits historical, educational or industrial. These state buildings are located on Willoughby Boulevard, a grand avenue paralleling the water front, and from the broad piazzas of the state structures visitors may rest and view the magnificent and historical harbor whereon the vessels of the world might rest at anchor. In the immediate front appear the great white men-of-war of our own and ofttimes a foreign nation's, and yachts, sloops, schooners and merchant vessels of every kind. Beyond are the frowning walls of Fort Monroe and the beautiful social retreat of the coast, Old Point Comfort. To the left may be seen the noted industrial school at Hampton, and still farther up the roads, toward where the mighty James mingles its waters with the salt tide of the sea, may be seen the city of Newport News, with the greatest shipyards in the world. To the right appears the broadening channel from roads to bay and from bay to broad and mighty Atlantic out between the capes of Charles and Henry.

The illumination at night is a scene in itself worthy a journey of a thousand miles to witness, and, with all the outlines of the buildings aglow, the paths of the Canoe Trail and Lovers' Lane twinkling with the myriads of little lights, the War Path a blaze of electricity, the many powerful searchlights playing the heavens with their mysterious messages and fifty miles of shore lines dotted with the lights of a dozen cities and nestling towns, what spectacle more sublime or beautiful could be imagined?

On the amusement section of the exposition, called the War Path, there is every conceivable amusement and diversion, where the visitor to the exposition, after a long day of sightseeing, can relax and let himself drift with the pleasure seeking from one amusement to the next on this "Great White Way," where the lights ever twinkle and the noise of the oriental music is ever in the air.

THE EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY

VALUE OF PROTECTIVE LAWS.

Governor Hughes, who has given much thought to the subject of life insurance, said in his fist message to the Legislature:

"At the last Session several statutes were passed with the object of furnishing more secure protection to the policyholders . . . Many of the provisions became effective on January 1, 1907. These statutes were enacted after very careful consideration."

Governor Hughes had previously said, "I would rather take insurance in a New York company compelled to transact business under these restrictions than in any company not so restricted; and I believe that will be the sentiment of the people of these United States."

Thousands of men have refused to insure in the past because they have been unwilling to take the trouble to read the policy, and have, consequently, been afraid to insure lest there be hidden away in the policy some inimical provision.

Such people will now be ready to take a policy, which besides the Society's guarantee, is endorsed by the State, and protected by laws framed for the express purpose of safeguarding their interests.

The present law embodies such points as the following:

Publicity.

Reports must be more com-prehensive and detailed than ever before. They are public documents, accessible to every policyholder.

Character of Investments Limited.

The Insurance Department must see that no infringement of the law relating to investments is permitted.

All Investments Must Be Reported.

Full schedules of assets must be given. All transactions must be spread upon the record.

Examinations.

The Insurance Department must make periodical examinations, and may make special examinations upon the complaint of policyholders.

Vouchers must be presented for all important disbursements, and these vouchers must be inspected by the Department.

Supervision.

The Department, instead of simply certifying to the solvency of a company, must report upon its management; must see that expense limits are not exceeded, and must see that it conforms in all respects to the requirements of the law.

Expense Limited.

Hereafter the expenses of every company will be strictly limited.

Management Restrictions.

The management by officers and directors is strictly regulated. Interest on the part of an officer or director in any loan or investment of the company is a criminal offense.

Volume of Business Limited.

Policyholders' Powers Increased.

The laws under which directors are elected have been revised, so as to give policyholders full power to exercise their rights.

Advertisements and Announcements.

Advertisements and public announcements must be straightforward and enlightening.

Standard Policy.

Not only must every policy be of a prescribed form, but it must contain the entire contract, and cannot be modified, or qualified, by outside regulations or collateral documents.

Agents.

The companies must see that agents do their business properly, and must limit their appointments to agents who can be made to respect the law.

Reserves Must Be Adequate.

The company must always maintain adequate reserves for the protection of all policyholders.

Annual Dividends

Surplus under Standard Po licies must be divided equitably in the form of annual dividends.

Non-Forfeiture

No policy can be forfeited unless due notice has been given in advance, and if a policy has a surrender value, the insured will get the benefit of it automatically.

Impartiality.

Policyholders must be dealt with fairly. Unjust discrimination is prohibited. Rebates must not be allowed.

Penalties.

The violation of the insurance law by the company, or any of its directors, officers or agents, its a crime punishable by severe penalties.

THE COTTON MARKET.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

New York, Aug. 10.—The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 5 points, the near position being lower, under liquidation while later positions reflected steady cables, and contnued dry weather in the Western belt. Trading was quiet and after working up to a net advance of 5@6 points on the active new crop months, prices ruled rather irregular, but held slightly over the closing figures of yesterday. The week end figures were about as expected, and there seemed little prospect of any change in the Wstern belt weather conditions over Sunday. Spot closed quiet and futures closed steady.

Receipts of cotton at the ports today, 1,593 bales, compared with 910 last Saturday, and 3,803 last year. Port receipts for the week are tsimated at 10,000 bales, compared with 7,440 actual last week, and 31,193 a year ago. Today's receipts at New Orleans, 119 bales, compared with 98 last year. At Houston today, 676 bales, as against 3,617 last year.

Spot cotton closed quiet; middling uplands, 13.40; middling Gulf, 13.65; no sales.

MONSTER STRIKE OF TELEGRAPHERS

They Threaten to Spread It Throughout United States and Canada.

4,0000 PERATORS NOW OUT

Operators in Fifty Cities From Ohio to California, Including Southern States, Quit Work—Telegraph Companies Will Fight.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Chicago, Aug. 10.—With some 4,000 telegraphers on strike in about fifty cities from Ohio to California, and encouraged by their success in hampering telegraphic facilities of both commercial telegraph companies in Chicago, where all but leased wire men are out, officers of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union tonight are planning to carry the strike to all parts of the United States and Canada. Instructions were today telegraphed by National Secretary Russell to Union Telegraphers in New York and other cities where they are still at work to "save their money and await orders."

A telegram was sent to President Small, of the Telegraphers' Union, who is in San Francisco, urging him to take the first train to Chicago to look after the situation, as the announced intention of the men to engineer the strike from Chicago. The telegraph companies are preparing to meet the issue and declare they will fight to a finish. Thy declare they have been temporizing with the union for months and they will hold no further negotiations with representative of the men on strike. Cots have been installed in the buildings of both companies in Chicago for the accommodation of strikebreakers and other preparatons for a bitter struggle are making.

According to information received in Chicago tonight the points already affected outside of Chicago and the total of strikers are:

	W. Union.	Postal.
Chicago	1,150	500
Houston	30	—
Kansas City	330	70

A consignment of 30 non-union operators from the East arrived in Chicago today and they were immediately placed at work. The new arrivals were evenly distributed between the two companies.

"We are filling positions as rapidly as possible," said T. P. Cook, general superintendent of the Western Union, tonight, "and we are in better position than we expected to be. We will not deal with any representatives of the strikers, as this company only treats with its own employes. When the men quit work they ceased to be employes of the Western Union and our relations with them are at an end. There will be no union recognition in this controversy."

"Will you meet President Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, should he come to Chicago and offer his services?" Mr. Cook was asked.

"We will not," was the emphatic answer.

W. I. Capen, superintendent of the Postal Telegraph Company in Chicago, said his company was making better progress than had been anticipated. A number of our employes have already returned to work," he declared, "and others have signified their intention of returning."

National Secretary Russell, of the Telegraphers' Union said:

"We are highly pleased with the situation, and, no matter what sort of assertions the telegraph officers may make, the fact remains they are not doing any business. They have a few chiefs and inexperienced telegraphers at work; but, as far as the companies being able to handle the public business is concerned, they are merely trying to mislead the public. We know for an actual fact that in Chicago there are not fifty operators who are working for the commercial companies tonight, where under normal conditions the number amounts to 1,550. We are in this fight to stay, and we must have recognition, or our union might as well go out of business."

All day a committee was preparing demands, which will be submitted to the telegraph companies on Monday as a preliminary in ordering a general strike. The demands in substance provides for equal pay for equal work, and an eight-hour day, the abolition of the sliding scale now in force, the companies to furnish typewriters, and to cease discrminating against union men. If the companies refuse to accede to these demands, the men in New York and all other cities, where they are still at work, it is declared tonight, will be ordered to refuse to work with non-union men.

The strikers, it was said tonight, were planning to cripple the long distance telephone service. There are thirty telegraph operators employed in this branch of the service in Chicago. These men are expert wiremen and are used in making up circuits. The strikers declare they all belong to the union. These men have been told to see whether the telegraph companies are sending messages by long distance telephone that would ordinarily be sent as telegrams, and if so, to refuse to allow such messages to be handled.

The executive committee of the Chicago Union will hold a meeting tomorrow to consider the advisability of ordering the 330 men employed on leased wres in Chicago to quit work. If such a plan is put into execution and the men respond to the order it will hamper the Chicago Board of Trade and all persons or companies who have leased wires systems.

Strikes in Many Places.

Oakand, Cal., Aug. 10.—President Samuel J. Small, of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, said today:

"The union telegraphers are going to quit telegraphing tomorrow everywhere, including Alameda county and San Francisco. The prevailing sentiment is to strike."

Later President Small said that conditions had changed to such an extent that no general strike will be called tomorrow in any city by him. Many of the strikes that are being called, he says, are illegal and he must take them up and approve them before they can have the support of the national organization. Mr. Small says he will issue a statement tonight or tomorrow giving full particulars as to what he intendsd to do.

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 10.—Ten men were consecutively ordered to operate the Postal Telegraph Company's wire between Augusta and Birmingham shortly after 6 o'clock today and upon each refusing they were dismissed. President Carter, of the local C. T. U. ordered the rest of the operators out, and at 6:30 o'clock there remained in the office only the manager and the book-keeper. About forty men are so far affected.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 10.—Owing to the strike in the Augusta office of the Postal Telegraph Company tonight, Columbia is practically cut off from telegraph communication. This is due to the fact that nearly all business from this city is relayed in Augusta. The local office here is not accepting business tonight.

Charleston, S. C., Aug. 10.—Charleston Postal operators have struck.

Beaumont, Tex., Aug. 10.—All the operators of the Western Union here went out at 6 o'clock this evening.

At the Postal it was said that if the men were asked to work with a non-union man there would be a strike.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 19.—About 100 employes of the Postal and Western Union Telegraph Companies quit work late today. At the Postal office the strike was precipitated by the discharge of several members of the union for refusing to work with Memphis where the operators had struck earlier in the afternoon.The Western Union men walked out at about the same time as the Postal and state they have no particular grievance except their claim for an eight hour day. They also claim proper consideration is not given them by the company.

YOUNG SIMON GOES TO PRISON

Unhappy Predicament of Rich New Yorker on Tour of Europe.

KILLED WOMAN WITH AUTO

German Court Sentenced Him to Prison and to Pay Costs and Refuses Him Bail—Mother Offered $250,000 Bond.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Berlin, Aug. 10.—Emil Jerome Simon,of New York, a 19 year old sophomore of the Science Department of Columbia University, was tried at Potsdam for killing Frau Schultz, wife of a farmer near Luckenwald, July 9, in an automobile accident and was sentenced to three months imprisonment with costs. The lawyer for the defense gave notice of appeal and demanded the liberation of his client in $750 bail but the court refused to grant the demand because Simon, being a foreigner, might leave the country and forfeit his bail.

Simon and a metal worker near Lonmann, temporarily occupying a seat in the automobile, testified that the speed was not above 12 to 15 miles an hour at the moment of the accident.

Simon's explanation was that he met a wagon which refused to go to the right, compelling him to go to the left suddenly. He was at the same moment overtaking two women. These separated as the machine approached, one going to the right side and one to the left. The latter lost her head when she saw the automobile veering toward her side and tried to cross in front of it, but the machine struck her. Lohmann confirmed Simon's story.

Other witnesses testified that Frau Schultz apparently was struck on the foot path at the side of the road, the automobile barely missing the trees. An expert automobilist, named Zechlin, testified that the machine, which was of nine horse power and made in Detroit, had just been repaired owing to the overheating of parts of it, and could not make over 18 miles an hour.

The mother of Simon at the time of his arrest, offered bail in $250,000 for his release, but it was refused.

POLICEMAN WHO IS MILLIONAIRE

Inspector Nicholas Hunt Reinstated in His Old Position at Chicago.

POLITICS HAD DOWNED HIM

Old Inspector's Return Was Occasion for Great Rejoicing—He Received Ovation From Citizens and Officers Generally.

(By Wire to The Morning Star.)

Chicago, August 10.—Inspector Nicholas Hunt, reputed millionaire and admitted to be the richest policeman in the world, was reinstated on the police force by Chief Shippy last night and placed in charge of his old headquarters in Hyde Park.

The inspector, who on a charge of superannuation, was deposed a year ago today by former Chief of Police John M. Collins, now under indictment on a charge of using the police for political purposes, was met at his old station by hundreds of friends, who had been informed in advance that the reinstatement was coming. Inspector Hunt's return was the occasion for an impromptu love feast, in which prominent citizens of Hyde Park and the police under his command took part. The reinstatement of the inspector confirmed rumors which have been afloat ever since Mayor Busse was elected. It was also taken by many as a severe blow at unionism and disorderly strikes, as it has been generally believed that the cause of the discharge of Inspector Hunt was the antagonism that union labor held for him as a result of his firm method in dealing with strike disorders.

The reinstating order, which had the approval of the mayor was without the approval of the civil service board as that body had never considered Hunt a civil service employe. The corporation counsel's office intimated to the executive branch last night that court action probably would result and that only in the courts could the legality of the reinstatement be determined.

It was during the strike in the stockyards in 1904, when pitched battles were being fought with the police almost every moment of the day, that Hunt most conspicuously showed his ability. With an added force of men he invaded the district and in an almost incredibly short time had cleared the place entirely of the disorderly element and made it safe.

WAS MISTAKEN FOR BURGLAR

Prominent Young Man at Mobile Shoots His Friend.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Mobile, Ala., August 10.—W. J. Patterson, Jr., son of a local publisher, was shot and mortally wounded early today by Fremont Thrower, the 18-year-old son of Judge Fremont Thrower, a friend and neighbor of Patterson. Thrower and Young Patterson had answered a call for assistance from a neighbor who had been awaken by a negro burglar. Mistaking Patterson for the burglar, Thrower fired the contents of a shot gun into Patterson's abdomen, at short range. Patterson can not survive.

DEN OF COUNTERFEITERS

Five Men and Moulds Captured in Pennsylvania.

(By Wire to the Morning Star.)

Uniontown, Pa., August 10.—In a raid on an alleged counterfeiters' den at Smithfield, Pa., today, five men were arrested, a large number of moulds captured and a big quantity of spurious coin found concealed about the place. The men were all foreigners. It is claimed that the plan has been in operation several weeks, as the neighborhood has been flooded with counterfeit money. The authorities have been on a still hunt for the counterfeiters for some time and believe all implicated have been captured.

At Los Angeles, Cal., Friday, at a hurried conference among Joe Gans, George Memsic, Thomas McCarty, manager of the Pacific Athleic Club, and others, the 20-round contest for the light weight championship scheduled for August 16, and later called, was reset for August 23.
